Troop E quandary up to commission

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The location of the new Troop E. Highway Patrol Headquarters, a controversy which placed citizens of Poplar Bluff and Sikeston at opposite ends of a lawsuit, will be settled by the highway commission and the new patrol superintendent.

Circuit Judge Frank Conley of Columbia ruled Friday against a permanent injunction to prevent the state from putting the headquarters at Sikeston, saying the superintendent can make the decision with the commission's consent. And Conley dissolved a temporary injunction on condition the commission consent is obtained.

The Sikeston site was picked out of 18 possible locations. Poplar Bluff, 50 miles to the west, has had the headquarters for 35 years and also offered a new site.

The patrol headquarters moved from Sikeston to Poplar Bluff in 1937.

Poplar Bluff Mayor Bernard Wheetley and seven other Butler County residents had contended Gov. Warren E. Hearnes had no authority to delete the designation of Poplar Bluff from a $693,600 appropriation for the headquarters.

Hearnes said the legislature could not legislate in an appropriations bill.

A Sikeston group intervened in the suit.

Retiring Highway Patrol Supt. E. I. "Mike" Hockaday chose to put the new building on 20 acres of donated land just south of Sikeston in New Madrid County.

Bids have been opened for the construction, but awarding of contracts was postponed pending the court decision.

Hockaday testified that it was his decision to build at Sikeston, and that he did not get the highway commission's consent. In cross examination, he said Hearnes did not ask him to put the headquarters at Sikeston.

Robert L. Hyder, the commission's chief counsel, said the matter could be brought up at the next meeting by the new superintendent, Maj. Samuel S. Smith.

Henry Andrae, lawyer for the Poplar Bluff group, said he did not plan an appeal.

While the legislature gave the superintendent authority to divide the state into districts and to provide offices, Conley said, it must be done with the consent of the highway commission.

He could find no testimony, Conley said, showing the commission had approved.

Because of separation of the executive, judicial and legislative branches of government, Conley said, he would not rule on the legality of Hearnes' veto.

Likewise, he said, he would not consider whether Hockaday was influenced by higher authority in the decision.

Because Hockaday was part of the executive branch, Conley said, "this court shall not substitute its judgment" for that of Hockaday on the relative merits of the two sites.

Conley was assigned to the case after Judge James T. Riley of Jefferson City disqualified himself.

Audit recommends salary hikes, mileage scrutiny

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov.-elect Christoper S. Bond's last audit contains recommendations for salary increases in some areas and proposals for an expanded sales effort for prison industry products.

The state auditor, who will be sworn in Monday as Governor, also says in his annual report that closer scrutiny should be given legislators' mileage expense reports.

Bond was Missouri's first auditor to rate departments on efficiency and whether or not they abided by statutes. In the past, audits had been mainly bookkeeping reports.

In an introduction for the 127-page report, Bond noted that his 80-member office followed standards issued in June by the Comptroller General of the United States.

The audit standards work group, whose study was the basis for the comptroller general's standards, was quoted by Bond's report:

"Auditing is an important part of the accountability process since it provides independent judgments of the credibility of public officials' statements about the manner in which they have carried out their responsibilities.

"Auditing also can help decision makers improve the efficiency, economy and effectiveness of governmental operations by identifying where improvements are needed."

The report cited major findings of more than 100 audits in 1972. Bond noted that "in a few instances we have been denied access to essential records" and consequently could not provide an opinion on the accuracy of the particular agency's records.

Bond's report said expense records of the Missouri House and Senate do not contain sufficient detail, and said the statutory allowance for mileage — a dollar for each 10 miles — is automatically paid to a member if he is in attendance "regardless of whether the mileage was actually traveled."

No control exists to determine if mileage actually was traveled, the report said. Lawmakers received $8,400 a year and expenses of $10 a day.

The report recommended legislation authorizing expenses for air travel since allotments of 16 cents a mile for air travel, the current practice, is unauthorized.

The report also noted that legislative clerks are paid $14 a day for every day in the month rather than $14 for every day worked, and said the law needed clarification. The report recommended an increase to make the pay competitive with similar clerical jobs in private business.

The report repeats previous contentions that money could have been saved in the state treasurer's office. Weekly transfers of funds from collection bank accounts rather than leaving funds there up to 30 days could have provided $241,000 during a 15-month audit period, the report said.

Investment of money held in inactive demand accounts would have increased interest income by $376,000 during the 15 months, according to the report.

Operation of the state fair lost $549,000 in 1969, $413,900 in 1970 and $412,400 in 1971, the report said.

The report repeated Bond's charge that indemnity payments to ranchers whose cattle were destroyed in the brucellosis eradication program were twice the amount authorized by state law.

Bond questioned the executive order setting up the Law Enforcement Assistance Council and suggested that it be authorized by legislation.

A reorganization bill in the State Senate would authorize the agency but its name would be changed to Law Enforcement Advisory Council.

Bond also recommended a larger staff for the Division of Personnel, which operates the merit system.

Bond recommended hiring more salesmen for products of prison shops and noted that an industrial Advisory Board for Prison Industries has not been established as required by law.

The report calls attention to an audit made public in May, saying the term "acting executive director" has been used for the 10-year Director of the Water Resources Board so he can be paid $17,000 and not the minimum of $10,000 required by law for the person with the official title of executive director.

Other major findings in the report:

—The state park board paid real estate taxes despite being exempt from taxation.

—The park board bought a motorhome for $12,992 "without a definite need for it."

—Park Board employes were politically active contrary to the board's policy manual.

—The Clean Water Commission, for the two

Fire damages bleachers

Fire destroyed a shed and heavily damaged a section of bleachers this morning at the Sikeston Senior High School Football field.

The fire was discovered about 6 a.m. in a shed used to store field equipment. The blaze spread to the bleachers and destroyed about one-half of the reserved seat bleachers located under the press box. The press box was not damaged.

Damage to the bleachers was conservatively estimated at about $2,000 by Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer.

Cause of the blaze is still undetermined. Linnemeyer said someone may have been smoking in the shed Friday night and became careless with matches. He said the fire apparently smoldered for a considerable time before breaking into flames.

Sheltered workshop gets grant for new bus van

A bus van for client transportation and a delivery truck will be purchased by the Community Sheltered Workshop in Sikeston, with $8,900 in federal funds granted recently by the Governor's Advisory Council on Mental Retardation and Other Developmental Disabilities. The equipment will expand the number of Workshop employes to 77 by providing transportation to and from work and increasing workshop contracts by offering product delivery service.

James Stallings and Pat Lea, Workshop representatives, and David Ragan, Sikeston Diagnostic Clinic administrator and regional developmental disabilities consultant, presented the grant application to the Governor's Advisory Council. The council, composed of professionals and consumers with special interest in developmental disabilities, was established to advise the Missouri Division of Mental Health, which administers federal funds coming into the state under Public Law 91-517-- the Developmental Disabilities Services and Facilities Construction Act.

This program provides federal assistance to states for planning, administration, direct services and construction of facilities for the developmentally disabled. A person considered developmentally disabled is a child or adult who is mentally retarded, cerebral palsied, epileptic or has other neurologically handicapping conditions which originated before his 18th birthday.

Approximately $880,000 has been distributed throughout the state since the first grant was awarded in September 1971. Thirty three projects have been funded and this is the second grant for the Sikeston Community Workshop. Grants are awarded on a competitive basis in accordance with regional and local priorities. Application information is available from the Missouri Division of Mental Health in Jefferson City.

Store owner robbed

HUNTERVILLE — Herbert Culbertson, owner of Hill's Store on Highway 153 between Parma and Hunterville, was beaten and robbed of between $6,000 and $7,000 Friday night by three unidentified men.

According to Culbertson, about 6:30 p.m. two men came to the front door of the store, which was closed. Culbertson lives in the back of the store. The men were carrying gas cans and asked for some gas. Culbertson filled the cans and started back into the store when the two men jumped him and took him inside. They beat him, handcuffed him and tied his feet to the bed with extension cord wire.

Culbertson said he heard a third voice in the store after he had been tied up.

No one saw the robber's car leave the store.

Highway patrolmen Larry Thompson and Bill Kincade and Stoddard County sheriff's department investigated.

8 injured in 5 SeMo accidents

Three area traffic accidents Friday and two early today resulted in injury to eight persons, according to the highway patrol.

Oma Schrimsher, 57, of Steele Route Two received cuts to the side of her face and to her eye at 4:40 p.m. Friday four and one half miles east of Kennett on Highway 84 when a one and one-half ton truck driven by Duril Holland, 56, of Wardell Route One slammed into the rear of her car which was stopped on the pavement. She was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

Two persons were injured at 5:25 p.m. Friday on Route B one mile north of Pascola when Sheila Mealer, 19, of Wardell lost control of her car and sideswiped a car driven by Ernest Whitaker, 24, of Wardell.

Injured were passengers in the Whitaker auto, Viola Whitaker, 51, of Wardell, who suffered cuts to her forehead, and Debbie Whitaker, 18, of Wardell, who received hand cuts. Both were taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti.

Helen Vaughn, 35, of Chicago, Ill. received a bump on the head at 11:55 p.m. Friday on Interstate 55 six miles north of Hayti when the car in which she was riding went out of control on ice, ran off the road and struck a guard rail. She was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital.

The driver, Alma Vaughn, 44, of Chicago was uninjured.

An accident at 2:15 a.m. today five miles north of Hayti on Interstate 55 resulted in injury to two passengers. Janet Westover, 26, of Plainfield, Wis., received cuts over her right eye and Sally Jarovatz, 23, of Plover, Wis., suffered a dislocated right arm. They were taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital.

The accident occurred when the driver of the car, Bonnie Ann Barborich, 23, of Seven Points, Wis., lost control and struck a guard rail.

At 12:55 a.m. today five miles south of Portageville on Interstate 55, Harry Schulte, 44, of Bossier, La., received a bruised left ankle and his wife Vivian, 39, suffered bruises and scratches on the right leg. They were taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital.

Sikeston woman seriously hurt

A Sikeston woman was seriously injured at noon Friday when she stepped in front of an automobile on East Malone in front of Barkett's Big Star supermarket.

Opal I. Johnson, 61, of 209 Lillian Drive, was rushed to Missouri Delta Community Hospital with a fractured pelvis and then transferred to a Memphis Hospital following the accident.

She was hit by a car driven by Earl B. Hutchison, 49, of 901 Stanford.

Police said she apparently waited for the car in front of Hutchison to pass and then stepped out into the street. Hutchison was unable to stop in time, police said.

The Johnson woman was knocked up onto the hood of the car and apparently stayed there until the car came to rest in front of the MFA service station.

Police said no charges have been filed against Hutchison.

Stolen car recovered

ST. LOUIS — A new car stolen from the lot of Jarvis Motor Co. in Sikeston was recovered Friday in St. Louis.

A St. Charles man, Billy Jo Allen, was taken into custody by St. Louis police. Allen reportedly denies taking the car, which was stolen on Dec. 14.

Further information was unavailable this morning.

A RETURN TO DECENCY?

As we enter the year 1973 there are encouraging signs that we might have a good year. And one of the most encouraging news stories is the report that Grove Press, Inc., the notorious promoter and publisher of pornographic and hate - America literature, has been dropped from the over- the - counter trading system because its net capital has dropped to less than the $250,000 minimum required for listing.

According to the last report by Grove Press to the Securities and Exchange Commission for the year 1971, the corporation suffered a loss of nearly $7 million, and the Grove stock, which sold for around $20.00 a share in 1968, can't be sold today for even as much as $1.00 a share. To put it another way, the "investors" who paid $20 a share in the hope of exploiting sex and filth have lost $1,900 in cold cash for every $2,000 invested.

It was Grove Press, you might recall, that defied the law by publishing "Tropic of Cancer" and "Lady Chatterley's Lover" with the expectation that the liberal U. S. Supreme Court would let them off the hook which the Court did. The widely publicized case provided Grove with what amounted to millions of dollars in free advertising, and it appeared (at least, to some) that there were big profits to be made.

Hopefully, the decline in the fortunes of Grove Press, which has been one of the "giants" in the field of pornography, signals a lack of interest on the part of the American people. It could mean that America will experience a return to decency.

BUT NO CONSPIRACY?

In 1966, Dr. Carroll Quigley wrote Tragedy and Hope, a sympathetic account of the "Insider" power complex which hopes to rule the world — even if the means include using and "containing" the Communists along the way.

Tragedy and Hope is now out of print, but The Naked Capitalist, a most revealing review of Dr. Quigley's peculiar apology for the cataclysmic effects the power complex has had upon all peoples, is available from Life Line for $2.

In it we find Dr. Quigley confirming the influence of the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) and its Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR) handing the China mainland to Mao Tse-tung and the Communists; astoundingly, he finds "no evidence" of conspiracy:

"The influence of the Communists in IPR is well established, but the patronage of Wall Street is less well known.

"The IPR was a private association of ten independent national councils in ten countries concerned with affairs in the Pacific. The headquarters of the IPR and the American Council of IPR were both in New York and were closely associated on an interlocking basis. Each spent about $2.5 million dollars over the quarter- century from 1925 to 1950 of which about half, in each case, came from the Carnegie Foundation and the Rockefeller Foundation (which were themselves interlocking groups controlled by an alliance of Morgan and Rockefeller interests on Wall Street). Much of the rest [of the money], especially of the American Council, came from firms closely allied to these two Wall Street interests, such as Standard Oil, International Telephone and Telegraph, International General Electric, the National City Bank, and the Chase National Bank ... [EDITORS NOTE: The two foundations, and the firms mentioned, are led by CFR members]

"There can be little doubt that the more active academic members of the IPR, the professors and publicists who became members of its governing board (such as Owen Lattimore, Joseph P. Chamberlain, and Philip C. Jessup of Columbia, William W. Lockwood of Princeton, John K. Fairbanks of Harvard, and others) and the administrative staff (which became in time, the most significant influence in its policies) developed an IPR party line. It is, furthermore, fairly clear that this IPR line had many points in common both with the Kremlin's party line on the Far East and with the State Department's policy line in the same area. The interrelations among these, or the influence of one on another, is highly disputed. Certainly no conclusions can be drawn. Clearly there were some Communists, even party members, involved (such as Frederick Vanderbilt Field), but it is much less clear that there was any disloyalty to the United States. Furthermore, there was a great deal of intrigue both to help those who agreed with the IPR line and to influence United States government policy in this direction. But there is no evidence of which I am aware of any explicit plot or conspiracy to direct American policy in a direction favorable either to the Soviet Union or to international communism."

RISING TRAFFIC TOLL

On Dec. 8, a United Airlines jet crashed into a crowded Chicago neighborhood, killing 46 persons on board. While the crash captured national headlines, hundreds of traffic accidents occurring the same day went almost unnoticed. The National Safety Council estimates that the nation's highway death toll will reach 56,700 in 1972, the highest in history. Disabling injuries for the year could reach two million. The largest previous one- year total was recorded in 1969, when 56,000 motorists lost their lives. The toll last year was 54,700. This year's increase is attributed to the rising number of licensed drivers and cars, and the increasing number of motorcycles, minibikes and bicycles on the highways. Drunken drivers still are responsible for about half of all fatal motor vehicle accidents. The problem is likely to increase as more states lower the drinking age to 18 years.

Although traffic deaths are rising, the casuality rate per 100 million miles driven -- a key safety indicator -- is expected to remain at 4.7. According to Acting Federal Highway Administrator R.R. Bartelsmeyer, motorists this year will travel an estimated 1,250 billion miles, a distance equal to more than 2.5 million round trips to the moon.Highway accidents are on the rise in nearly all industrialized countries. Dr. J. D. Havard of the British Medical Association, in a report prepared for the World Health Organization, says that worldwide road casualities in the next few years will reach an annual toll of 250,000 dead and more than 10 million injured.

Despite the staggering number of automobile fatalities in this country, the federal government spends more time and money investigating airplane mishaps. State and local authorities who investigate most car accidents are hindered by lack of money, manpower and training. Lack of manpower also was behind a decision of the National Highway Safety Administration to postpone the effective date of a number of proposed auto-safety standards, including ones for vehicle speed control and a mandatory tire grading system. "In view of the number of deaths and injuries occurring on the roads today," says Dr. Havard, "it should be more widely accepted that highway engineering is as important to public health in the 20th century as was sanitary engineering in the 19th century."

A PLACE FOR STATESMANSHIP

A draft of a proposed new U.S. international aviation policy was released almost simultaneously with First Lady Patricia Nixon's christening of the Pan Am Clipper Young America, which fully raised the curtain on the transport era of the Boeing 747. A number of international airlines have expressed strong criticism of certain aspects of the proposed new policy, which they believe to be contrary to present law and detrimental to the public.

A U.S. international air carrier such as Pan American World Airways, it should never be forgotten, is a self-sustaining, taxpaying business enterprise. For more than 40 years, Pan Am, through the initiative of its founder and successive managements, has led the way in the development of the international air transport industry. It has asked no favors-- only an opportunity to do its job. While paying taxes, as does any U.S. business corporation, it has successfully competed with the nationalized, government-supported airlines of the world. All of its vast network of facilities, planes and personnel have long been recognized as virtually an instrument of U.S. foreign policy. In carrying out the latter role, Pan Am has fulfilled obligations of a nature not ordinarily undertaken by a private business. Management philosophy has, from the beginning, been dominated by a long- term goal of promoting international goodwill through encouragement of mass air travel among peoples of all lands. In pioneering the introduction of the great 747, the airline has assured the place of the United States in the air age for years to come.

Soon other leading international air carriers will be tackling the host of costly innovations and changes that have accompanied the 747. These are only a few of the considerations that should weight heavily in formulating any U.S. international air transport policy.

EARNINGS AND READING

A NEW RESEARCH study shows that adults in families with incomes of $15,000 and more, 88% read the newspaper. This scales down to 86% in the $1,000 to $15,000; 82% in $8,000 to $10,000; and 75% in the $5,000 to $8,000. Readership of two or more newspapers is also high in the upper income group.

The director of the survey, Dr. Leo Bogart, concluded, "We can say that the greater the needs and the greater the buying power, the greater the likelihood that an adult will read one or more newspapers."

DARK SHADOW ON FREEDOM

The editor of the Junction City, Oregon, Times, after expressing sharp criticism of the consumer zealots who do nothing but carp, criticize and demand more government intervention in every phase of production and distribution, comes to a point of principle in the following words: "There's just one little matter that bothers. If we vest all authority in federal governmental bureaus of standards, complete with federal rules for performance, penalties for noncompliance, total disregard for worthwhile employment or profitable operation, are we not in effect renouncing democracy for the Politburo of the Soviet state or the Reichstag of what was formerly the Republic of Germany?"

No matter what guise it comes in, a basic condition of totalitarian government is the power of the state to exercise police surveillance over the acts and enterprises of private citizens. Police surveillance and political oppression are brothers of the same dark order. They are mortal enemies of freedom.

AT LEAST NEUTRAL

Mr. James N. Sites, public relations executive, put into words the climate in which business operates today when he said,"...you can't whitewash a garbage dump. Any organization must be able, in effect, to go into the court of public opinion with clean plants. It is therefore only common sense for a firm to analyze and inventory where it now stands on air, water, noise and even 'visual' pollution-- and either clean up, or be able to convince the public it is pursuing a program of determined action aimed at doing so...It is no longer enough simply to prove we need a particular company's products or services. Managements are being held responsible for their organization's total impact on the community. If this cannot be positive in all respects, it should be at least neutral."

For its part-- now that industry is recognizing its obligation in the environmental field-- the public has no choice but to accept its share of the costs of the new standards that are a part of every business operation in the country.

MEETING NEEDS AND DESIRES

The biggest problem in the United States, with respect to nutrition, is not how to get enough to eat, but what to eat. This was one of the revelations of the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health that stimulated the massive Nutrition Awareness program now being participated in by virtually all segments of the food production and distribution industry. The program is dedicated to teaching normally healthy people how to eat a balanced diet and also produce the types and quality of foods most desired by consumers.

Long ago, public taste caused meat producers, for example, to turn away from the practice of producing the fattest possible animals. Those who urge the development of meat animals with less fat reveal what a spokesman for the meat industry terms, " ... an appalling lack of knowledge, or unwillingness to acknowledge, the tremendous strides made by the livestock and meat industry in the scientific development of cattle, hogs and sheep that produce meat with less fat, fewer calories and more protein." The spokesman added, "our industry will continue to modify its beef, pork, lamb and sausage foods to fit the combined desires and needs of America ..."

What those needs or desires will turn out to be in the future have yet to be determined, but the meat industry like every other segment of the U. S. food industry will continue with the task of producing and making available to Americans the finest food in the world.

MAKING THE ROAD EASIER

Railroads have been granted rate increases. As they are announced, there could well be an inclination on the part of many to presume that these increases will terminate the "rail crisis" which has been overtaking the industry for a great many years. Any such presumption would be a grave error. Rate increases can be considered little more than a help in an emergency situation. The breathing spell which increased rates may now allow the railroad industry should be utilized to meet long- standing rail problems that have been hanging over the nation like a Sword of Damacles.

Most of the answers to rail problems are contained in the Report of America's Sound Transportation Review Organization (ASTRO). The Report is the work of transportation authorities who spent many months studying the rails and preparing recommendations to create a revitalized, taxpaying, private enterprise rail system. The Report rejects nationalization or government takeover of the railroads as the most expensive possible step from the standpoint of taxpayers. Instead, it offers over 30 specific proposals for an action program directed at four major objectives. Those objectives can be stated briefly: (1) Government must balance its treatment of transportation. Favoritism toward other modes to the tune of hundreds of billions of tax dollars has been killing the rails. (2) Regulation should be rationalized and management initiative encouraged. Railroads are still treated as a 19th Centruy monopoly in the eyes of the law. (3) Fairness and realism should govern rail passenger service. (4) And, finally, railroad management and labor must cooperate.

To achieve these four elementary objectives, the ASTRO Report recommends action on the part of both the government and the railroad industry. In some areas, such as rail passenger service, a start has been made. But, there remains a long and difficult road ahead-- a road that has been made a bit easier by rail rate increases but still remains to be traveled with as little delay as possible.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON — It was a gay dinner party at Paul Young's Restaurant back there in mid-December with thick, rare steak heavily garnished with old-fashioned politics. Some 20 couples -- gayest of whom was labor's usually dour political strategist Al Barkan -- were celebrating their second victory over the bedraggled "New Politics" of McGovern.

There was much laughter over what someone called the rout of McGovern's intellectual privateers. And the toasts went to the 54-year-old Texan Robert Strauss, new Democratic national chairman. The mini-fete was as newsy as it was noisy. Barkan, director of labor's Committee on Political Education (COPE), pledged Strauss labor's support. This was interpreted as the word from AFL—CIO President George Meany who has a fetish about overt political partisanship.

That is, Meany never declared himself officially in the Democratic or Republican parties. Yet here was Barkan, who reflects Meany absolutely, declaring him officially in on the Democratic party and its leadership. And at just about the same moment President Nixon was inviting Meany into the administration as a junior partner. And being the junior partner of an American President is mighty senior.

Political weathervane Barkan assumed no unnatural subtleties. He told the gathering of activists from the camps of Sens. Humphry and Jackson and COPE that he was delighted Strauss had convinced Meany to take a direct organizational interest inside the Democratic party. He said:

"We (the AFL—CIO) will be in front of you, alongside of you, behind you, all around you."

Barkan, of course, pleased Strauss. His pledge, interpreted as being made in Meany's name, indicated that labor had just begun to fight the McGovern forces which still are powerful in regional organizations.

Virtually everyone but the professionals appear to have forgotten there shortly will be a new battle for a new kind of national delegate. Sort of 1972 revisited. Some time in 1974 there will be an "interim national Democratic convention" to adopt politics and tactics for '76. It will have done the labor - Jackson - Humphrey coalition little good to have elected Strauss party chairman in a single battle if they lose the war, meaning the next two Democratic conventions.

So Barkan, speaking for COPE, told the gathering, between bites of steak and of McGovern's New Politics, that "labor" will keep its eye on the party's new commissions.

Apparently this operation is under way. Amid the post-holiday doldrums and the opening of Congress, it has been almst universally overlooked that Strauss has named a Jackson - Humphrey - AFL-CIO mix special assistant -- Prof. Mark Siegel, of Chicago's Loyola University.

Siegel, in his early 30s, was one of the activists in the Humphrey challenge to McGovern's California delegation in Miami last July, say those who know him. It is politically significant that he has been assigned by Strauss with shepherding the party's Charter, Delegate and Vice Presidential Selection Commission. Nationally, this leaves the McGovern forces with the Reform Commission, headed by the Auto Workers Union chief Leonard Woodcock, and a stray mimeograph machine or two.

Now the question for political sages is: How can the blunt George Meany continue to bite the cigar instead of the bullet? How can he stand firmly entrenched in both parties?

The answer, it seems to insiders, is that he has a powerful political party of his own in all but name, though COPE will do until a better one comes along.

The answer is that Meany is positioning himself to spring agilely into, or against, either party depending on what happens on the Hill, in the White House, and in the Democratic party.

And Meany is bouncier than ever. Regularly he says he is never again going to be taken for granted; he is non- partisan but non non-political; and (to insiders when discussing the White House) he'll beware of those bearing gifts but will accept them.

It is the instinctive nature of any sagacious labor leader not to cut himself off from the intricacies of modern government and political power inherent in having the private telephone number of a governor or a President.

So this is the cagiest of political games since N. Machiavelli advised his Prince. President Nixon needs a strikeless, cooperative labor movement to work with him on homefront economic stabilization controls. Meany needs a friendly White House because he leads a union of unions which "hires" him to be the most expert lobbyist of all. And the Democratic party needs Meany (and what he represents) or it will get to the White House only as tourists until the tricentennial celebration.

And Meany needs a friendly Democratic party to help him control a liberal Congress and to reconcile the AFL-CIO's powerful "non-hard hat" constituency led by such militants as the Machinists' president Floyd "Red" Smith and the Communication Workers' chief Joe Beirne.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Military Advisers in Civilian Clothes

WASHINGTON — We recently wrote about secret Pentagon plans to subvert the Vietnam cease-fire by substituting civilian experts for military advisers.

The preliminary agreement, which Henry Kissinger is now going back to Paris to repair, called for a withdrawal of U. S. military advisers from Vietnam but permitted defense suppliers to remain in the country to replace equipment.

The Pentagon, therefore, began making arrangements to keep military advisers in South Vietnam in the guise of defense suppliers.

This is a ruse the Pentagon has used elsewhere, we've now learned, to conceal the true number of military advisers overseas. In Saudi Arabia, for instance, dozens of military experts in civilian clothes are advising the Saudis on everything from missile maintenance to jeep repairs.

The Bendix Field Engineering Corporation alone has recruited more than 100 military experts to serve in Saudi Arabia. They were hired right off military bases to perform such functions as "inspection of all armament maintenance activity, both light and heavy" or assisting the "Saudi Arabian Army Ordiance Corps Logistic Operations Director in a logistical command including a headquarters and six support sites."

--Officers in Mufti--

Once on the Bendix payroll, the retired officers discard their drab green uniforms, dress as businessmen and fly to Saudi Arabia carrying briefcases. Their salaries range from $800 to $2,000 a month, plus generous benefits.

The Raytheon Corporation has brought a host of missile experts to Saudi Arabia to teach the natives how to operate and maintain a multimillion - dollar Hawk missile system. At least two other giant U. S. corporations, Lockheed and Northrop, also provide military assistance to Saudi Arabia.

A corporate spokesman, while acknowledging the existence of military contracts with Saudi Arabia, refused to discuss the details. Typical was the statement from the Northrop spokesman who said tersely: "We have been asked not to discuss our contracts, particularly our foreign military sales contracts."

The officer in charge of contracting at Saudi Arabia's military office said he had no "personal knowledge" of the contracts and couldn't name anyone who did.

Our own sources in the Pentagon told us the corporate military aid in Saudi Arabai is coordinated by a U. S. military training mission, whose duties go far beyond training and deal with just about every aspect of military affairs.

ILLEGAL DRAFT — For years, the National Guard has been illegally drafting young Eskimos in Alaska. Under the law the Guard can accept only volunteers. But about four years ago, the local unit in Bethel, Alaska, fell behind in recruiting volunteers. An Eskimo village council member, who also happened to be a lieutenant in the Guard, quietly began supplying the Guard with names of "eligible" young Eskimos. Local recruiters selected gullible Eskimos from the list and signed them into the Guard, without informing them of their legal rights. One victim had read about his lottery number and knew it was above 200. But when the Guard's recruiting sergeant told him the plane was coming for him, the young Eskimo dutifully climbed aboard. He later explained that he thought the lottery didn't apply to him because he was an Eskimo. The Guard never told him differently.

AMERICAN IN LEBANON — American Airlines uses the patriotism appeal to attract customers. It didn't tell its customers, however, about sending a big jet to Lebanon for major structural and engineer work, thus cheating American workers out of jobs. The Transport Workers Union, which is considering filing a grievance, tell us Lebanese workers are paid only about 28 cents an hour. Through Middle East Airlines, we've learned, American Airlines had promised to provide more work for the Lebanese.

HICKMAN'S HOWL — When we reported how the Treasury Department and the big automakers had mishandled the return of excise taxes to new car buyers, Treasury's Assistant Secretary Fred Hickman let out a howl. As evidence, we cited hundreds of letters from angry motorists who wrote to Ralph Nader and us about delayed payments. Hickman, nevertheless, tried to deny the charges in a misleading letter. Unable to get the letter circulated himself, he had the letter sent out at the taxpayers' expense to editors all over the country through the Internal Revenue Service's district directors.

CONTROVERSIAL SPEAKER — Steve Spingarn, a tough, Truman- era White House lawyer whose forefathers came to American in the 18th century, has angrily quit the Sons of the Revolution because they invited a crony of American fascists as their guest speaker. The members are descendants of Revolutionary War soldiers and Spingarn insisted it was an insult to their memory to invite Harold Lord Varney to speak. Varney is president of the Committee on Pan - American Policy, which he cofounded with the late Allen Zoll, a notorious American fascist and anti-Semite. Varney was invited to speak by Ralph Stever, an assistant vice president of the First National City Bank of New York. Stever explained that he learned of Varney's background too late to do anything about the talk. Varney himself told us that he was not personally a racist.

RISING TRAFFIC TOLL

On Dec. 8, a United Airlines jet crashed into a crowded Chicago neighborhood, killing 46 persons on board. While the crash captured national headlines, hundreds of traffic accidents occurring the same day went almost unnoticed. The National Safety Council estimates that the nation's highway death toll will reach 56,700 in 1972, the highest in history. Disabling injuries for the year could reach two million. The largest previous one- year total was recorded in 1969, when 56,000 motorists lost their lives. The toll last year was 54,700. This year's increase is attributed to the rising number of licensed drivers and cars, and the increasing number of motorcycles, minibikes and bicycles on the highways. Drunken drivers still are responsible for about half of all fatal motor vehicle accidents. The problem is likely to increase as more states lower the drinking age to 18 years.

Although traffic deaths are rising, the casuality rate per 100 million miles driven -- a key safety indicator -- is expected to remain at 4.7. According to Acting Federal Highway Administrator R.R. Bartelsmeyer, motorists this year will travel an estimated 1,250 billion miles, a distance equal to more than 2.5 million round trips to the moon.Highway accidents are on the rise in nearly all industrialized countries. Dr. J. D. Havard of the British Medical Association, in a report prepared for the World Health Organization, says that worldwide road casualities in the next few years will reach an annual toll of 250,000 dead and more than 10 million injured.

Despite the staggering number of automobile fatalities in this country, the federal government spends more time and money investigating airplane mishaps. State and local authorities who investigate most car accidents are hindered by lack of money, manpower and training. Lack of manpower also was behind a decision of the National Highway Safety Administration to postpone the effective date of a number of proposed auto-safety standards, including ones for vehicle speed control and a mandatory tire grading system. "In view of the number of deaths and injuries occurring on the roads today," says Dr. Havard, "it should be more widely accepted that highway engineering is as important to public health in the 20th century as was sanitary engineering in the 19th century."

A PLACE FOR STATESMANSHIP

A draft of a proposed new U.S. international aviation policy was released almost simultaneously with First Lady Patricia Nixon's christening of the Pan Am Clipper Young America, which fully raised the curtain on the transport era of the Boeing 747. A number of international airlines have expressed strong criticism of certain aspects of the proposed new policy, which they believe to be contrary to present law and detrimental to the public.

A U.S. international air carrier such as Pan American World Airways, it should never be forgotten, is a self-sustaining, taxpaying business enterprise. For more than 40 years, Pan Am, through the initiative of its founder and successive managements, has led the way in the development of the international air transport industry. It has asked no favors-- only an opportunity to do its job. While paying taxes, as does any U.S. business corporation, it has successfully competed with the nationalized, government-supported airlines of the world. All of its vast network of facilities, planes and personnel have long been recognized as virtually an instrument of U.S. foreign policy. In carrying out the latter role, Pan Am has fulfilled obligations of a nature not ordinarily undertaken by a private business. Management philosophy has, from the beginning, been dominated by a long- term goal of promoting international goodwill through encouragement of mass air travel among peoples of all lands. In pioneering the introduction of the great 747, the airline has assured the place of the United States in the air age for years to come.

Soon other leading international air carriers will be tackling the host of costly innovations and changes that have accompanied the 747. These are only a few of the considerations that should weight heavily in formulating any U.S. international air transport policy.

EARNINGS AND READING

A NEW RESEARCH study shows that adults in families with incomes of $15,000 and more, 88% read the newspaper. This scales down to 86% in the $1,000 to $15,000; 82% in $8,000 to $10,000; and 75% in the $5,000 to $8,000. Readership of two or more newspapers is also high in the upper income group.

The director of the survey, Dr. Leo Bogart, concluded, "We can say that the greater the needs and the greater the buying power, the greater the likelihood that an adult will read one or more newspapers."

DARK SHADOW ON FREEDOM

The editor of the Junction City, Oregon, Times, after expressing sharp criticism of the consumer zealots who do nothing but carp, criticize and demand more government intervention in every phase of production and distribution, comes to a point of principle in the following words: "There's just one little matter that bothers. If we vest all authority in federal governmental bureaus of standards, complete with federal rules for performance, penalties for noncompliance, total disregard for worthwhile employment or profitable operation, are we not in effect renouncing democracy for the Politburo of the Soviet state or the Reichstag of what was formerly the Republic of Germany?"

No matter what guise it comes in, a basic condition of totalitarian government is the power of the state to exercise police surveillance over the acts and enterprises of private citizens. Police surveillance and political oppression are brothers of the same dark order. They are mortal enemies of freedom.

AT LEAST NEUTRAL

Mr. James N. Sites, public relations executive, put into words the climate in which business operates today when he said,"...you can't whitewash a garbage dump. Any organization must be able, in effect, to go into the court of public opinion with clean plants. It is therefore only common sense for a firm to analyze and inventory where it now stands on air, water, noise and even 'visual' pollution-- and either clean up, or be able to convince the public it is pursuing a program of determined action aimed at doing so...It is no longer enough simply to prove we need a particular company's products or services. Managements are being held responsible for their organization's total impact on the community. If this cannot be positive in all respects, it should be at least neutral."

For its part-- now that industry is recognizing its obligation in the environmental field-- the public has no choice but to accept its share of the costs of the new standards that are a part of every business operation in the country.

MEETING NEEDS AND DESIRES

The biggest problem in the United States, with respect to nutrition, is not how to get enough to eat, but what to eat. This was one of the revelations of the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health that stimulated the massive Nutrition Awareness program now being participated in by virtually all segments of the food production and distribution industry. The program is dedicated to teaching normally healthy people how to eat a balanced diet and also produce the types and quality of foods most desired by consumers.

Long ago, public taste caused meat producers, for example, to turn away from the practice of producing the fattest possible animals. Those who urge the development of meat animals with less fat reveal what a spokesman for the meat industry terms, " ... an appalling lack of knowledge, or unwillingness to acknowledge, the tremendous strides made by the livestock and meat industry in the scientific development of cattle, hogs and sheep that produce meat with less fat, fewer calories and more protein." The spokesman added, "our industry will continue to modify its beef, pork, lamb and sausage foods to fit the combined desires and needs of America ..."

What those needs or desires will turn out to be in the future have yet to be determined, but the meat industry like every other segment of the U. S. food industry will continue with the task of producing and making available to Americans the finest food in the world.

MAKING THE ROAD EASIER

Railroads have been granted rate increases. As they are announced, there could well be an inclination on the part of many to presume that these increases will terminate the "rail crisis" which has been overtaking the industry for a great many years. Any such presumption would be a grave error. Rate increases can be considered little more than a help in an emergency situation. The breathing spell which increased rates may now allow the railroad industry should be utilized to meet long- standing rail problems that have been hanging over the nation like a Sword of Damacles.

Most of the answers to rail problems are contained in the Report of America's Sound Transportation Review Organization (ASTRO). The Report is the work of transportation authorities who spent many months studying the rails and preparing recommendations to create a revitalized, taxpaying, private enterprise rail system. The Report rejects nationalization or government takeover of the railroads as the most expensive possible step from the standpoint of taxpayers. Instead, it offers over 30 specific proposals for an action program directed at four major objectives. Those objectives can be stated briefly: (1) Government must balance its treatment of transportation. Favoritism toward other modes to the tune of hundreds of billions of tax dollars has been killing the rails. (2) Regulation should be rationalized and management initiative encouraged. Railroads are still treated as a 19th Centruy monopoly in the eyes of the law. (3) Fairness and realism should govern rail passenger service. (4) And, finally, railroad management and labor must cooperate.

To achieve these four elementary objectives, the ASTRO Report recommends action on the part of both the government and the railroad industry. In some areas, such as rail passenger service, a start has been made. But, there remains a long and difficult road ahead-- a road that has been made a bit easier by rail rate increases but still remains to be traveled with as little delay as possible.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON — It was a gay dinner party at Paul Young's Restaurant back there in mid-December with thick, rare steak heavily garnished with old-fashioned politics. Some 20 couples -- gayest of whom was labor's usually dour political strategist Al Barkan -- were celebrating their second victory over the bedraggled "New Politics" of McGovern.

There was much laughter over what someone called the rout of McGovern's intellectual privateers. And the toasts went to the 54-year-old Texan Robert Strauss, new Democratic national chairman. The mini-fete was as newsy as it was noisy. Barkan, director of labor's Committee on Political Education (COPE), pledged Strauss labor's support. This was interpreted as the word from AFL—CIO President George Meany who has a fetish about overt political partisanship.

That is, Meany never declared himself officially in the Democratic or Republican parties. Yet here was Barkan, who reflects Meany absolutely, declaring him officially in on the Democratic party and its leadership. And at just about the same moment President Nixon was inviting Meany into the administration as a junior partner. And being the junior partner of an American President is mighty senior.

Political weathervane Barkan assumed no unnatural subtleties. He told the gathering of activists from the camps of Sens. Humphry and Jackson and COPE that he was delighted Strauss had convinced Meany to take a direct organizational interest inside the Democratic party. He said:

"We (the AFL—CIO) will be in front of you, alongside of you, behind you, all around you."

Barkan, of course, pleased Strauss. His pledge, interpreted as being made in Meany's name, indicated that labor had just begun to fight the McGovern forces which still are powerful in regional organizations.

Virtually everyone but the professionals appear to have forgotten there shortly will be a new battle for a new kind of national delegate. Sort of 1972 revisited. Some time in 1974 there will be an "interim national Democratic convention" to adopt politics and tactics for '76. It will have done the labor - Jackson - Humphrey coalition little good to have elected Strauss party chairman in a single battle if they lose the war, meaning the next two Democratic conventions.

So Barkan, speaking for COPE, told the gathering, between bites of steak and of McGovern's New Politics, that "labor" will keep its eye on the party's new commissions.

Apparently this operation is under way. Amid the post-holiday doldrums and the opening of Congress, it has been almst universally overlooked that Strauss has named a Jackson - Humphrey - AFL-CIO mix special assistant -- Prof. Mark Siegel, of Chicago's Loyola University.

Siegel, in his early 30s, was one of the activists in the Humphrey challenge to McGovern's California delegation in Miami last July, say those who know him. It is politically significant that he has been assigned by Strauss with shepherding the party's Charter, Delegate and Vice Presidential Selection Commission. Nationally, this leaves the McGovern forces with the Reform Commission, headed by the Auto Workers Union chief Leonard Woodcock, and a stray mimeograph machine or two.

Now the question for political sages is: How can the blunt George Meany continue to bite the cigar instead of the bullet? How can he stand firmly entrenched in both parties?

The answer, it seems to insiders, is that he has a powerful political party of his own in all but name, though COPE will do until a better one comes along.

The answer is that Meany is positioning himself to spring agilely into, or against, either party depending on what happens on the Hill, in the White House, and in the Democratic party.

And Meany is bouncier than ever. Regularly he says he is never again going to be taken for granted; he is non- partisan but non non-political; and (to insiders when discussing the White House) he'll beware of those bearing gifts but will accept them.

It is the instinctive nature of any sagacious labor leader not to cut himself off from the intricacies of modern government and political power inherent in having the private telephone number of a governor or a President.

So this is the cagiest of political games since N. Machiavelli advised his Prince. President Nixon needs a strikeless, cooperative labor movement to work with him on homefront economic stabilization controls. Meany needs a friendly White House because he leads a union of unions which "hires" him to be the most expert lobbyist of all. And the Democratic party needs Meany (and what he represents) or it will get to the White House only as tourists until the tricentennial celebration.

And Meany needs a friendly Democratic party to help him control a liberal Congress and to reconcile the AFL-CIO's powerful "non-hard hat" constituency led by such militants as the Machinists' president Floyd "Red" Smith and the Communication Workers' chief Joe Beirne.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Military Advisers in Civilian Clothes

WASHINGTON — We recently wrote about secret Pentagon plans to subvert the Vietnam cease-fire by substituting civilian experts for military advisers.

The preliminary agreement, which Henry Kissinger is now going back to Paris to repair, called for a withdrawal of U. S. military advisers from Vietnam but permitted defense suppliers to remain in the country to replace equipment.

The Pentagon, therefore, began making arrangements to keep military advisers in South Vietnam in the guise of defense suppliers.

This is a ruse the Pentagon has used elsewhere, we've now learned, to conceal the true number of military advisers overseas. In Saudi Arabia, for instance, dozens of military experts in civilian clothes are advising the Saudis on everything from missile maintenance to jeep repairs.

The Bendix Field Engineering Corporation alone has recruited more than 100 military experts to serve in Saudi Arabia. They were hired right off military bases to perform such functions as "inspection of all armament maintenance activity, both light and heavy" or assisting the "Saudi Arabian Army Ordiance Corps Logistic Operations Director in a logistical command including a headquarters and six support sites."

--Officers in Mufti--

Once on the Bendix payroll, the retired officers discard their drab green uniforms, dress as businessmen and fly to Saudi Arabia carrying briefcases. Their salaries range from $800 to $2,000 a month, plus generous benefits.

The Raytheon Corporation has brought a host of missile experts to Saudi Arabia to teach the natives how to operate and maintain a multimillion - dollar Hawk missile system. At least two other giant U. S. corporations, Lockheed and Northrop, also provide military assistance to Saudi Arabia.

A corporate spokesman, while acknowledging the existence of military contracts with Saudi Arabia, refused to discuss the details. Typical was the statement from the Northrop spokesman who said tersely: "We have been asked not to discuss our contracts, particularly our foreign military sales contracts."

The officer in charge of contracting at Saudi Arabia's military office said he had no "personal knowledge" of the contracts and couldn't name anyone who did.

Our own sources in the Pentagon told us the corporate military aid in Saudi Arabai is coordinated by a U. S. military training mission, whose duties go far beyond training and deal with just about every aspect of military affairs.

ILLEGAL DRAFT — For years, the National Guard has been illegally drafting young Eskimos in Alaska. Under the law the Guard can accept only volunteers. But about four years ago, the local unit in Bethel, Alaska, fell behind in recruiting volunteers. An Eskimo village council member, who also happened to be a lieutenant in the Guard, quietly began supplying the Guard with names of "eligible" young Eskimos. Local recruiters selected gullible Eskimos from the list and signed them into the Guard, without informing them of their legal rights. One victim had read about his lottery number and knew it was above 200. But when the Guard's recruiting sergeant told him the plane was coming for him, the young Eskimo dutifully climbed aboard. He later explained that he thought the lottery didn't apply to him because he was an Eskimo. The Guard never told him differently.

AMERICAN IN LEBANON — American Airlines uses the patriotism appeal to attract customers. It didn't tell its customers, however, about sending a big jet to Lebanon for major structural and engineer work, thus cheating American workers out of jobs. The Transport Workers Union, which is considering filing a grievance, tell us Lebanese workers are paid only about 28 cents an hour. Through Middle East Airlines, we've learned, American Airlines had promised to provide more work for the Lebanese. HICKMAN'S HOWL — When we reported how the Treasury Department and the big automakers had mishandled the return of excise taxes to new car buyers, Treasury's Assistant Secretary Fred Hickman let out a howl. As evidence, we cited hundreds of letters from angry motorists who wrote to Ralph Nader and us about delayed payments. Hickman, nevertheless, tried to deny the charges in a misleading letter. Unable to get the letter circulated himself, he had the letter sent out at the taxpayers' expense to editors all over the country through the Internal Revenue Service's district directors.

CONTROVERSIAL SPEAKER — Steve Spingarn, a tough, Truman- era White House lawyer whose forefathers came to American in the 18th century, has angrily quit the Sons of the Revolution because they invited a crony of American fascists as their guest speaker. The members are descendants of Revolutionary War soldiers and Spingarn insisted it was an insult to their memory to invite Harold Lord Varney to speak. Varney is president of the Committee on Pan - American Policy, which he cofounded with the late Allen Zoll, a notorious American fascist and anti-Semite. Varney was invited to speak by Ralph Stever, an assistant vice president of the First National City Bank of New York. Stever explained that he learned of Varney's background too late to do anything about the talk. Varney himself told us that he was not personally a racist.

First priority should be to update state legislature

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.. (AP) — The first priority House Speaker Richard Rabbitt recommended to his colleagues in the opening session of the Missouri House Wednesday was to update procedures and provide qualified staffs to improve the legislative branch.

He noted "a growing sentiment among legislators throughout America to assume their rightful position as a separate and equal branch of government."

Former State Rep. George W. Parker, a Republican who ran unsuccessfully for treasurer, believes updating and modernizing procedures in the legislature "could end up saving the Missouri taxpayers millions of dollars."

It is a subject Rabbitt and Parker agree on across party lines.

In his speech Rabbitt said that "while the executive and judicial branches have grown in authority and responsibility the legislature has changed little in the past 30 years."

Parker calls the situation "almost unbelievable" and says changes are overdue.

"I am more convinced than ever that updating the legislature remains one of the most basic state problems," he said earlier this year.

Among the inadequacies of the present system Parker lists no private office space for representatives, no personal staff or secretaries for them, not enough research staff to help with legislation and no expense allowances for legislators to work in their districts with constituents.

"And it's not a matter of money ... we could spend three times the present amount on the legislative branch and it wouldn't be that much," he said in an interview.

The most important need for reform, according to Parker, is a larger staff to analyze and research legislation and a centralized process for submitting bills to avoid duplication.

He says the situation was so bad during his last term "that sometimes if it hadn't been for the lobbyists we wouldn't know what we were doing."

Parker, who has spoken throughout the state for legislative reform, says there are too many committees and too many bills.

"There should only be about 20 or 25 committees and they need to add more staff members to analyze bills. They only have a staff of about 20 to help 190 legislators," he said.

Last session the 163-member House had 44 committees.

House Majority Leader Kenneth Rothman has submitted a resolution to reduce the number of committees in the 77th Session and Parker recommends Missouri adopt a computer system to list all bills and keep track of them as they move through the legislative process.

He said in some states lawmakers can get a daily printout sheet that shows at what stage all bills are on their way to becoming law.

He also recommends more money be spent to gather facts on important issues. Presently the average amount for such studies is about $5,000, he said.

"You can't solve a major problem with $5,000. You can't even gather the necessary facts. The problems today are too complicated," he said.

He also recommends more cooperation with the federal government.

In his first term Parker said he was placed on a committee dealing with relations between federal and state government.

"We met twice for about 10 minutes and another time for about 30 minutes," he noted.

He said California has a full time representative in Washington to serve as a liaison between the state and the federal government and he feels a similar system would be good for Missouri.

The major problem, Parker says, is that the public often regards legislative attempts to add staff members and new offices as "feathering the legislators' nests."

"But it's in the public interest. What is more important than the public business? There's a lot of waste of money and it gets back to internal procedures," he said.

Parker said he is hopeful there will be substantial change in Missouri's legislative branch this session and he said Senate leader William J. Cason and House Speaker Rabbit seem to be making "real serious" attempts to bring about reform.

Area cadets to march in inaugural parade

MEXICO — Cadets Frank Smith of Sikeston and Tommy Merick of Catron are members of Missouri Military Academy marching units which have been invited to the inaugural of Missouri Governor - elect Christopher Bond.

Smith, the son of Mrs. David Blanton of 1103 North Kingshighway in Sikeston, and Richard Smith of West Palm Beach, Fla., is a member of the drill team.

Merick, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Merick of Catron Route One, is a member of the band.

Both youths will march in the parade at 10 a.m. on Jan. 8 in Jefferson City, where Missouri Military's band and drill team last month won first prize in the city's Christmas parade.

It will be the sixth time since 1953 that the cadet units, marching band, drill team Fusileers and color guard, have been selected to honor the state's chief executive. The school has been represented in the parades for Governors Phil Donnelly in 1953, James T. Blair in 1957, John M. Dalton in 1961 and Warren E. Hearnes in 1965 and 1969.

The Academy is a school for boys in fourth through 12 grades. The marching units are from the ninth through 12th grade.

Dixon, Agnew cases continued to Jan. 11

CHARLESTON — Delbert Agnew and Joseph Albert Dixon, both of the Pinhook Community near East Prairie, appeared before Magistrate T. J. Brown, Jr. and requested attorneys be appointed them for representation on felony charges of forgery and counterfeiting.

Agnew is accused of passing a $70 check at the Tru-Valu IGA Foodliner in East Prairie with the forged name of Finley E. Thompson. Dixon is accused of passing a $60 check at Walden and Carter's Super Market in East Prairie. The cases were continued to Jan. 11 and bond for both was set at $1,000.

An attorney was appointed for Jerome Marshall of Charleston, charged with exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon and resisting a police officer. The cases were continued to Jan. 11 and bond on each charge was set at $1,500.

Bobby Joe Johnson of Charleston was sentenced to 60 days in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace.

A charge of operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license brought a $41 fine and 10-day suspended jail sentence to Clarence Ronald Newcomb of Charleston. Newcomb was placed on one year probation.

Edward Lee Holmes received a 30-day suspended sentence and was fined $29.50 on a common assault charge. He was placed on six months probation.

A driving while intoxicated charge brought a $118 fine to William T. Sweet of Bertrand and Wayne Dalton Rigsby of East Prairie was fined $26 on a charge of no operator's license.

Cases dismissed included Roye Stephen Feagon of East Prairie, improper registration; and Bobby L. Delk of Bertrand, expired vehicle license. Costs in both cases were certified to Mississippi County.

Cases continued to Jan. 11 were Bryant Rodgers, II of Charleston, interfering with public property; Timothy Ivan Sigourney of Sikeston, speeding; Robert Morrison of St. Louis, non-support; Pleas Starks of Charleston, common assault; Mack Walton, Jr. of Sikeston, no Missouri PSC authority; and James William Webb, II of Charleston, interfering with public property.

An improper registration charge against Nathaneal Severe of Charleston was continued to Feb. 1 and a charge of illegal use of a siren against Jed Edward Carson of Charleston was continued to Jan. 18.

What's the law?

The case of the generous fan

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Herman was a fantastic professional football player who rarely got thrown for a big loss. But when it finally happened, it was a beauty. What's more, it was the United States government, no less, that put the shoulder to him.

At the beginning of each football season, Herman was given a brand- new Thunderbird automobile by the manufacturer, free of charge, in exchange for his old one. And insisting that Herman was receiving something of value each year, on which he had paid no income taxes, the pesky Internal Revenue Service demanded that the rental value of the Thunderbirds be included in Herman's gross income for years past and present.

"G'wan," was Herman's answer. "Ya gotta be kidding. The manufacturer's a great fan of mine. He didn't rent me those cars. He loaned them to me."

"I'm a great fan of yours also," retorted an Internal Revenue agent, "but, I wouldn't give you a car for nothing and neither did the manufacturer. You're a big star. When you drive around in one of his Thunderbirds and fans see you, it has great promotional value. Consequently, those cars were given to you in exchange for services rendered and you've got to pay income taxes on the value of the use of those cars."

Unable to gain a yard in the argument, Herman took the matter to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Herman pay income taxes on the value of the use of the Thunderbirds?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that the manufacturer did not give Herman the cars out of the goodness of his heart. On the contrary, noted the judge, he obviously did it out of business considerations in hoping to promote the sale of his automobiles. Therefore, concluded the judge, the money Herman did not have to pay for the use of the cars was taxable income to him.

Special homecoming planned for Hearnes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes will be honored Monday with special homecoming in their hometown of Charleston in the Bootheel area.

After participating in the inaugural ceremonies for Gov. Elect Christopher S. Bond and other state officials, the governor and his wife will arrive at the Sikeston Airport at 3 p.m.

The activities will be sponsored by the chambers of commerce of East Prairie and Charleston and the honorary colonels of Mississippi County.

Activities include a short address, dinner and dance at the Charleston Armory.

First priority should be to update state legislature

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The first priority House Speaker Richard Rabbitt recommended to his colleagues in the opening session of the Missouri House Wednesday was to update procedures and provide qualified staffs to improve the legislative branch.

He noted "a growing sentiment among legislators throughout America to assume their rightful position as a separate and equal branch of government."

Former State Rep. George W. Parker, a Republican who ran unsuccessfully for treasurer, believes updating and modernizing procedures in the legislature "could end up saving the Missouri taxpayers millions of dollars."

It is a subject Rabbitt and Parker agree on across party lines.

In his speech Rabbitt said that "while the executive and judicial branches have grown in authority and responsibility the legislature has changed little in the past 30 years."

Parker calls the situation "almost unbelievable" and says changes are overdue.

"I am more convinced than ever that updating the legislature remains one of the most basic state problems," he said earlier this year.

Among the inadequacies of the present system Parker lists no private office space for representatives, no personal staff or secretaries for them, not enough research staff to help with legislation and no expense allowances for legislators to work in their districts with constituents.

"And it's not a matter of money ... we could spend three times the present amount on the legislative branch and it wouldn't be that much," he said in an interview.

The most important need for reform, according to Parker, is a larger staff to analyze and research legislation and a centralized process for submitting bills to avoid duplication.

He says the situation was so bad during his last term "that sometimes if it hadn't been for the lobbyists we wouldn't know what we were doing."

Parker, who has spoken throughout the state for legislative reform, says there are too many committees and too many bills.

"There should only be about 20 or 25 committees and they need to add more staff members to analyze bills. They only have a staff of about 20 to help 190 legislators," he said.

Last session the 163-member House had 44 committees.

House Majority Leader Kenneth Rothman has submitted a resolution to reduce the number of committees in the 77th Session and Parker recommends Missouri adopt a computer system to list all bills and keep track of them as they move through the legislative process.

He said in some states lawmakers can get a daily printout sheet that shows at what stage all bills are on their way to becoming law.

He also recommendes more money be spent to gather facts on important issues. Presently the average amount for such studies is about $5,000, he said.

"You can't solve a major problem with $5,000. You can't even gather the necessary facts. The problems today are too complicated," he said.

He also recommends more cooperation with the federal government.

In his first term Parker said he was placed on a committee dealing with relations between federal and state government.

"We met twice for about 10 minutes and another time for about 30 minutes," he noted.

He said California has a full time representative in Washington to serve as a liaison between the state and the federal government and he feels a similar system would be good for Missouri.

The major problem, Parker says, is that the public often regards legislative attempts to add staff members and new offices as "feathering the legislators' nests."

"But it's in the public interest. What is more important than the public business? There's a lot of waste of money and it gets back to internal procedures," he said.

Parker said he is hopeful there will be substantial change in Missouri's legislative branch this session and he said Senate leader William J. Cason and House Speaker Rabbit seem to be making "real serious" attempts to bring about reform.

Area cadets to march in inaugural parade

MEXICO — Cadets Frank Smith of Sikeston and Tommy Merick of Catron are members of Missouri Military Academy marching units which have been invited to the inaugural of Missouri Governor - elect Christopher Bond.

Smith, the son of Mrs. David Blanton of 1103 North Kingshighway in Sikeston, and Richard Smith of West Palm Beach, Fla., is a member of the drill team.

Merick, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Merick of Catron Route One, is a member of the band.

Both youths will march in the parade at 10 a.m. on Jan. 8 in Jefferson City, where Missouri Military's band and drill team last month won first prize in the city's Christmas parade.

It will be the sixth time since 1953 that the cadet units, marching band, drill team Fusileers and color guard, have been selected to honor the state's chief executive. The school has been represented in the parades for Governors Phil Donnelly in 1953, James T. Blair in 1957, John M. Dalton in 1961 and Warren E. Hearnes in 1965 and 1969.

The Academy is a school for boys in fourth through 12 grades. The marching units are from the ninth through 12th grade.

Dixon, Agnew cases continued to Jan. 11

CHARLESTON — Delbert Agnew and Joseph Albert Dixon, both of the Pinhook Community near East Prairie, appeared before Magistrate T. J. Brown, Jr. and requested attorneys be appointed them for representation on felony charges of forgery and counterfeiting.

Agnew is accused of passing a $70 check at the Tru-Valu IGA Foodliner in East Prairie with the forged name of Finley E. Thompson. Dixon is accused of passing a $60 check at Walden and Carter's Super Market in East Prairie. The cases were continued to Jan. 11 and bond for both was set at $1,500.

An attorney was appointed for Jerome Marshall of Charleston, charged with exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon and resisting a police officer. The cases were continued to Jan. 11 and bond on each charge was set at $1,500.

Bobby Joe Johnson of Charleston was sentenced to 60 days in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace.

A charge of operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license brought a $41 fine and 10-day suspended jail sentence to Clarence Ronald Newcomb of Charleston. Newcomb was placed on one year probation.

Edward Lee Holmes received a 30-day suspended sentence and was fined $29.50 on a common assault charge. He was placed on six months probation.

A driving while intoxicated charge brought a $118 fine to William T. Sweet of Bertrand and Wayne Dalton Rigsby of East Prairie was fined $26 on a charge of no operator's license.

Cases dismissed included Roye Stephen Feagon of East Prairie, improper registration; and Bobby L. Delk of Bertrand, expired vehicle license. Costs in both cases were certified to Mississippi County.

Cases continued to Jan. 11 were Bryant Rodgers, II of Charleston, interfering with public property; Timothy Ivan Sigourney of Sikeston, speeding; Robert Morrison of St. Louis, non-support; Pleas Starks of Charleston, common assault; Mack Walton, Jr. of Sikeston, no Missouri PSC authority; and James William Webb, II of Charleston, interfering with public property.

An improper registration charge against Nathaneal Severe of Charleston was continued to Feb. 1 and a charge of illegal use of a siren against Jed Edward Carson of Charleston was continued to Jan. 18.

What's the law?

The case of the generous fan

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Herman was a fantastic professional football player who rarely got thrown for a big loss. But when it finally happened, it was a beauty. What's more, it was the United States government, no less, that put the shoulder to him.

At the beginning of each football season, Herman was given a brand- new Thunderbird automobile by the manufacturer, free of charge, in exchange for his old one. And insisting that Herman was receiving something of value each year, on which he had paid no income taxes, the pesky Internal Revenue Service demanded that the rental value of the Thunderbirds be included in Herman's gross income for years past and present.

"G'wan," was Herman's answer. "Ya gotta be kidding. The manufacturer's a great fan of mine. He didn't rent me those cars. He loaned them to me."

"I'm a great fan of yours also," retorted an Internal Revenue agent, "but, I wouldn't give you a car for nothing and neither did the manufacturer. You're a big star. When you drive around in one of his Thunderbirds and fans see you, it has great promotional value. Consequently, those cars were given to you in exchange for services rendered and you've got to pay income taxes on the value of the use of those cars."

Unable to gain a yard in the argument, Herman took the matter to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Herman pay income taxes on the value of the use of the Thunderbirds?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that the manufacturer did not give Herman the cars out of the goodness of his heart. On the contrary, noted the judge, he obviously did it out of business considerations in hoping to promote the sale of his automobiles. Therefore, concluded the judge, the money Herman did not have to pay for the use of the cars was taxable income to him.

Special homecoming planned for Hearnes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes will be honored Monday with special homecoming in their hometown of Charleston in the Bootheel area.

After participating in the inaugural ceremonies for Gov. Elect Christopher S. Bond and other state officials, the governor and his wife will arrive at the Sikeston Airport at 3 p.m.

The activities will be sponsored by the chambers of commerce of East Prairie and Charleston and the honorary colonels of Mississippi County.

Activities include a short address, dinner and dance at the Charleston Armory.

RYE COOKIES

1 cup margarine or butter
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 cup sifted light rye flour
1-1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Cream margarine; gradually add sugar and cream until fluffy. Blend in rye flour; then all-purpose flour. If dough is sticky add additional rye flour. Chill. Pinch off a small piece of dough at a time, leaving the rest in the refrigerator. Knead dough lightly and roll or pat dough as thin as possible on a well-floured surface. Cut rounds with a floured cookie cutter about 2-1/2" diameter. Cut center from cookies with a thimble or small round cookie cutter. Place on greased cookie sheet. Sprinkle cookies with granulated sugar and prick dough with a fork. Bake at 350° for 8-10 minutes or until golden yellow. Cool on cookie sheet. Makes about 50 cookies.

Steps given to save battered children

Dear Ann Landers: You did more good than you will ever know when you printed a certain letter five years ago. That letter, I am sure, saved many lives. I enclose the column which I have been carrying with me ever since. It is barely legible. Please, Ann, print it again. The problem of battered children is getting worse. Thanks and God bless you.--- Eureka, California Reader

Dear Reader: Thank you for asking. Here it is:

Dear Ann Landers: Do you know how many little lives you might save if you informed your millions of readers that they need not stand by helpless while neighbors and relatives beat and neglect and abuse their children? Many cities and states have ordinances and laws to protect children against cruelty which is, of course, the result of sick minds. For God's sake, help those kids.

Here are the proper steps:

(1) Take the child immediately to an impartial doctor or to a hospital for examination. Do not select your family doctor or a doctor who is a relative or personal friend.

(2) If, after examination, the doctor says the child has been abused or criminally neglected, call a police officer and have the courage to sign a complaint if you are asked to do so.

(3) If the child is of school age, take Ann Landers' advice. A teacher can be an excellent witness. Teachers see these children day after day and they will know if the youngster has frequent bruises, cuts, or blackened eyes.

These days so many people are afraid to become involved. They say it is dangerous to poke your nose into other people's business. Please, Ann, tell them a helpless child is everybody's business.--- L.A.

Dear L.A.: Bless you for your letter. Often people need encouragement to follow their better instincts. You have given it and I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: My brother and I are 14 and 12 years old. Mom died three months ago and it was a terrible shock to everybody. She was sick only a couple of weeks and we were sure she would be O.K.

Everyone has been awfully nice to us and we are getting along pretty good. The problem is that Dad loses his temper, yells a lot and gets mad for no reason. He never used to be that way. What can we do?--- E. and J.

Dear E. and J.: Nobodv gets mad "for no reason." In your dad's case he is probably unhappy, lonely, frustrated and missing your mother. The best thing you can do is try to understand. Time is a great healer.

Dear Ann Landers: Why do you think everyone lives in New Haven goes to Yale? Don't you know that New Haven is a city of families, working people, old and young, rich and poor, professionals and non-professionals? You don't assume that every letter with a Boston postmark was composed by a Harvard student trying to put you on, do you? Why then do you immediately become suspicious of your New Haven correspondents?

You write a fine column and I have faith in your advice. If I had a problem I would not hesitate to write to you, but I'd drive to Hartford and mail the letter from there.--- Connecticut Yankee.

Dear Yank: I receive many letters from New Haven that are on the level. No fun and games. No faking out. But the best phonies-- the real beauts-- do indeed come from New Haven-- and they have a Yale flavor that is unmistakable. But thanks for the noble defense.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious-- lonely? Welcome to the club. There's ehlp for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity." Send 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to this newspaper.

RYE COOKIES

1 cup margarine or butter
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 cup sifted light rye flour
1-1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

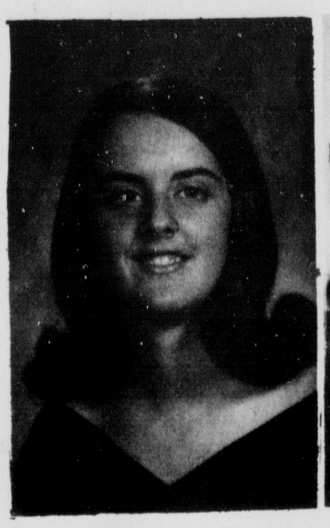

Cream margarine; gradually add sugar and cream until fluffy. Blend in rye flour; then all-purpose flour. If dough is sticky add additional rye flour. Chill. Pinch off a small piece of dough at a time, leaving the rest in the refrigerator. Knead dough lightly and roll or pat dough as thin as possible on a well-floured surface. Cut rounds with a floured cookie cutter about 2-1/2" diameter. Cut center from cookies with a thimble or small round cookie cutter. Place on greased cookie sheet. Sprinkle cookies with granulated sugar and prick dough with a fork. Bake at 350° for 8-10 minutes or until golden yellow. Cool on cookie sheet. Makes about 50 cookies.

January weather to be wet and cold

PORTAGEVILLE— Above normal categories are indicated for both temperature averages and precipitation totals over the Missouri Bootheel during the month of January. This pattern suggests fewer than normal intrusions of Artic air into the region, and shorter duration for those cold periods that to develop. The mid and lower Mississippi Valley, and the Ohio Valley fall within the region expected to receive more than normal precipitation. Distribution and amounts of moisture will determine how seriously this will affect marginal alnd along the river this month.

With Bootheel land already wet, the trend for January offers little encouragement to farmers still trying to get crops out of the field. Long periods of cold weather would help some as far as gaining access to fields. The five- day outlook will offer the best guide for anticipating any favorable trends. Motorists should be particularly alert to the potential for freezing or frozen precipitation as they plan trips. It is not sufficient to check local weather since only a few degrees difference in temperature can change rain to freezing rain or sleet or snow within a relatively short distance.

Livestock chill stresses are not as likely to occur under this pattern. However, the five-day outlook is again a good guide to sudden drops in temperature preceded by wetting rains and accompanied by strong winds. Stock water sources will probably resist hard freezes in general. Ice forming on borrow pits is treacherously thin and children should be warned against venturing out onto ice that looks solid near the shore.

Some farmers are still concerned with lowering grain moisture as soybeans come out of field. The agricultural advisory for the Missouri Bootheel was discontinued in mid- December since the growing season was essentially complete. Expressions of interest prompted its resumption late in the month, and it will be available through the winter. Predictions of dewpoints and relative humidity should be helpful to farmers attempting to schedule introduction of unheated air into bins.

Rainfall measured during the three- day period from Dec. 8- 10 tipped the scales for the month toward above normal. The 3.14 inches of water collected at Portageville during that time brought totals for the month to 5.64 inches. That one storm upset the prediction for below normal precipitation for December, a trend that did predominate during the latter half of the month when only 0.96 inch collected.

While any additional water would have been too much, the persistant cloudiness and 19 days out of 31 with rain in some amount, emphasized the wet character of the month. Little drying was accomplished, and that was nullified by subsequent rains. Water was still standing on a number of fields across the region as 1973 began.

Normal precipitaiton for January over the Bootheel as a whole is 4.33 inches. Normal for individual cities are:

Cape Girardeau, 3.85 inches; Caruthersville 4.66"; Dexter, 4.47"; Doniphan, 3.46"; Morehouse, 4.48"; New Madrid, 4.56"; Parma, 4.65"; Poplar Bluff, 3.84"; Sikeston, 4.67".

Short term averages for other points are:

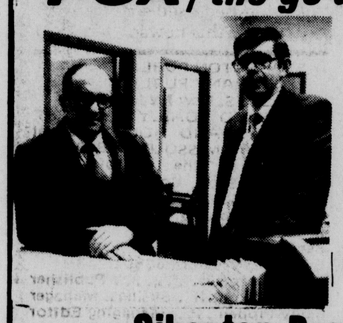

Advance, 3.87 inches, Bernie, 4.96"; Bloomfield, 4.65"; Charleston, 3.88"; Clearwater Dam, 3.26"; Deering, 4.30"; Kennett, 4.29"; Malden, 3.76"; Portageville, 4.36"; Puxico, 3.58"; Qulin, 4.79"; Wappapello Dam, 3.73".

Long term records indicate that averages for those Januarys with above normal precipitation are 7.28 inches at Poplar Bluff, 7.81 at Sikeston and 7.62 inches at Caruthersville. Precipitation totals under those conditions ranged from 4.61 to 13.11 inches at Poplar Bluff, from 4.87 to 15.83 inches at Sikeston, and from 4.76 to 15.76 inches at Caruthersville. The highest totals listed occurred in 1937 at Poplar Bluff and Caruthersville, and in 1950 at Sikeston.

Young farmers to meet Jan. 16

BLOOMFIELD — The Missouri Farm Bureau Young Farmers have set Jan. 16 for their Southeast Missouri multi-county meeting, notes Terry Buker, Missouri Farm Bureau regional field man for the area. The dinner meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Stoddard County Farm Bureau office in Bloomfield.

Mr. and Mrs. David Schwab of Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas of Hayti will cohost the event, which is designed to familarize young farmers in the District 6 region with other young farmers, with young farmer program, and with Missouri Farm Bureau and the young farmer's place in the organization, Buker relates.

John Summitt of Cardwell, Missouri Farm Bureau vice president, and Hugh Rogers of Sikeston, District 6 representative on the Missouri Farm Bureau board of directors, are slated to attend the meeting.

Q—Who is considered the first modern heavyweight boxing champion of the world?

Grain programs mailed

NEW MADRID — A preliminary explanation of the newly announced 1973 Feed Grain Program has been mailed to New Madrid County farmers with feed grain bases, reports Bernard Recker, chairman of the Agricultural Stablization and Conservation (ASC) committee.

"As they sort through their Christmas mail, I hope they find the explanation and put it aside for special attention," he said, explaining it is the first official word to be sent directly to farmers on the major provisions of the 1973 Feed Grain Program. Some 2,362 producers of corn, grain sorghum and barley participated in the 1972 Feed Grain Program, earning payments totaling approximately $1,305,307.

Sign-up for the 1973 feed grain, wheat, and cotton programs begins Feb. 5 at ASCS County Office and continues through March 16.

The 1973 Feed Grain Program includes barley, corn, and grain sorghum,and producers may elect to participate under one of two options.

Option A requires an acreage set- aside eqivalent to 30 per cent of a farm's feed grain base. Payment will be on an acreage equal to one-half of each feed grain base established for the farm. Per acre payment rates will be equal to the farm program yield times 35 cents for corn, 33 cents for grain sorghum and 28 cents for barley. A supplemental payment is possible if a five-month national average price plus the payment is less than 70 per cent of parity. Feed grain acreage on farms signed up in Option A will be limited only by set-aside and conserving base requirements.

Option B requires an acreage set- aside equivalent to 15 per cent of a farm's feed grain base. Farmers electing to participate under this plan agree to limit their 1973 total feed grain acreage to the total acreage certified as planted for harvest in 1972 and also agree to forego supplemental payments. Payment will be on an acreage equal to one half of each feed grain base established for the farm. The per acre payment rates will be equal to the farm program yield times 24 cents for corn, 23 cents for grain sorghum and 20 cents for barley.

Under either option, substitution of wheat in excess of the allotment and soybeans planted for harvest as beans will be considered as feed grain for purposes of preserving feed grain base history for the farm.

Commodity loans will be available to all participants in the feed Grain Program on the farm's entire production. National average loan rates will be $1.08 per bushel for corn (No. 2 basis); $1.79 per hundredweight ($1 per bushel) for grain sorghums; and 86 cents per bushel for barley.

The same alternate crops as approved for 1972 may be grown on set- aside in 1973. These are castor beans, crambe, guar, mustard seed, plantago ovato, safflower, sesame and sunflower. The payment reduction if alternate crops are grown on set-aside land will be equal to 30 per cent of the average payment rate under Option A. This will be true whether the farmer is participating under Otpion A, Option B, or the wheat program. Those interested in obtaining more details should check with the County ASCS Office, Recker said.

Q—What movie won 11 Oscars in 1959?

Q—Who accepted surrender of the British at the Battle of Yorktown?

Conservation farming

Conservation can aid farm safety. Repairing a ditch can prevent a tractor wheel from slipping off the edge. Fencing a pond can prevent a child from drowning, or for that matter, a calf. Even an efficient well planned farm like the one shown above, can be improved through conservation and safety measures.

Conservation aids in farm safety

BENTON — Application of conservation measures on farm land may be an aid for farm safety. We hear many reports of accidents involving tractors or machinery overturning. Some of these accidents are caused by a wheel dropping off into a small gully or ditch caused by excessive erosion. Ditches can always be repaired or eliminated, but the man on a tractor may not have a second chance.

Fencing a farm pond can also be a safety measure for both the farmer and his livestock. A fence around a pond may be enough to keep small children from falling in and drowning.

Many farmers have also lost livestock from falling through an icy pond. A fence around the pond will keep livestock out of the pond area, and may save a calf as well as having a better quality water supply.

For assistance with your conservation problems, contact the Soil Conservation Service field office in Benton. Apply conservation now to save your soil and maybe your life.

Crop production to be discussed

According to John Garrett, area agronomy specialist, three all-day crop production winter meetings will be held in Scott County. Locations for the meetings will be Sikeston, Chaffee and Kelso. Each of the meetings will begin at 9 a.m. with registration, coffee and doughnuts and end about 3:30 p.m.

The meeting at Chaffee will be held Thursday, Jan. 18 at the VFW hall. 1973 Crop Production Practices for corn, milo, soybeans and wheat will be discussed.

The meeting at Sikeston will be held Friday, Jan. 19 in the Security National Bank community room. The 1973 crop production practices for corn, milo, cotton, soybeans and wheat will be discussed.

The date and place for the Kelso meeting has not been confirmed at this time. Farmers in the north end of Scott County should check with the local fertilizer dealer. He will be notified several days in advance of the meeting. 1973 crop production practices for corn, milo, soybeans and wheat will be discussed.

Area agronomy specialists and personnel from Delta Research Center at Portageville will be presenting each program.

Every farmer who expects to stay in the occupation must look ahead to 1973 plowing, planting and harvest. The practices recommended at these meetings may increase 1973 crop yields. A few new recommendations have developed since 1972.

Don't forget, mark one of the following dates on your calendar and plan to attend:

Thursday, Jan. 18, VFW Hall, Chaffee.

Friday, Jan. 19, Security National Bank, Sikeston.

Date to be announced at Kelso.

Conservation methods can increase yields

BENTON — The best way to understand what soil and water conservation can do for you is to take a good look at farms already operating the conservation way.

You can expect an increase of at least one- fifth to one-fourth higher yields per acre if you put to work the conservation practices needed on your farm. Conservation farming calls for very little additional effort and results in a reduction of farm operating cost.

A farm ranking high for needed conservation practices can average 15 per cent greater crop yields if these practices are applied.

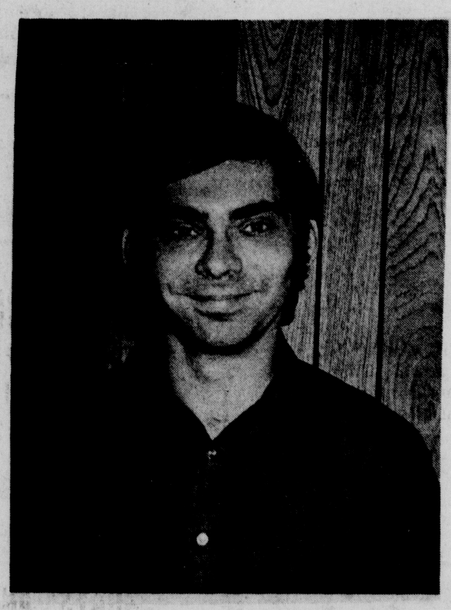

A farm plan from the county Soil Conservation Service in Benton is the first step in planning your farm for conservation farming.

How you benefit from soil and water conservation and how good a farmer you are will show up in your farm when you sell or retire.

The purpose of a farm conservation plan is to develop a farming plan that makes maximum productive use of every acre and lets you farm at top capacity with a minimum loss of soil and water.

January weather to be wet and cold

PORTAGEVILLE— Above normal categories are indicated for both temperature averages and precipitation totals over the Missouri Bootheel during the month of January. This pattern suggests fewer than normal intrusions of Artic air into the region, and shorter duration for those cold periods that to develop. The mid and lower Mississippi Valley, and the Ohio Valley fall within the region expected to receive more than normal precipitation. Distribution and amounts of moisture will determine how seriously this will affect marginal alnd along the river this month.

With Bootheel land already wet, the trend for January offers little encouragement to farmers still trying to get crops out of the field. Long periods of cold weather would help some as far as gaining access to fields. The five- day outlook will offer the best guide for anticipating any favorable trends. Motorists should be particularly alert to the potential for freezing or frozen precipitation as they plan trips. It is not sufficient to check local weather since only a few degrees difference in temperature can change rain to freezing rain or sleet or snow within a relatively short distance.

Livestock chill stresses are not as likely to occur under this pattern. However, the five-day outlook is again a good guide to sudden drops in temperature preceded by wetting rains and accompanied by strong winds. Stock water sources will probably resist hard freezes in general. Ice forming on borrow pits is treacherously thin and children should be warned against venturing out onto ice that looks solid near the shore.

Some farmers are still concerned with lowering grain moisture as soybeans come out of field. The agricultural advisory for the Missouri Bootheel was discontinued in mid- December since the growing season was essentially complete. Expressions of interest prompted its resumption late in the month, and it will be available through the winter. Predictions of dewpoints and relative humidity should be helpful to farmers attempting to schedule introduction of unheated air into bins.

Rainfall measured during the three- day period from Dec. 8- 10 tipped the scales for the month toward above normal. Little drying was accomplished, and that was nullified by subsequent rains. Water was still standing on a number of fields across the region as 1973 began.

Cape Girardeau, 3.85 inches; Caruthersville 4.66"; Dexter, 4.47"; Doniphan, 3.46"; Morehouse, 4.48"; New Madrid, 4.56"; Parma, 4.65"; Poplar Bluff, 3.84"; Sikeston, 4.67".

Short term averages for other points are:

Advance, 3.87 inches, Bernie, 4.96"; Bloomfield, 4.65"; Charleston, 3.88"; Clearwater Dam, 3.26"; Deering, 4.30"; Kennett, 4.29"; Malden, 3.76"; Portageville, 4.36"; Puxico, 3.58"; Qulin, 4.79"; Wappapello Dam, 3.73".

Long term records indicate that averages for those Januarys with above normal precipitation are 7.28 inches at Poplar Bluff, 7.81 at Sikeston and 7.62 inches at Caruthersville. Precipitation totals under those conditions ranged from 4.61 to 13.11 inches at Poplar Bluff, from 4.87 to 15.83 inches at Sikeston, and from 4.76 to 15.76 inches at Caruthersville. The highest totals listed occurred in 1937 at Poplar Bluff and Caruthersville, and in 1950 at Sikeston.

Dennis White, (left photo), leading scorer for the underclassmen in their losing effort against the seniors in Donkey basketball action Friday night, face guards Eric Sappenfield as he attempts to score.

Faculty, Seniors claim victories

The weather outside Friday night may have been poor, but the 900- plus crowd that braved the weather to see the "SHS Funky Faculty" narrowly defeat the "Sikeston All- Stars" and the powerful offense of the "SHS Super Seniors" crush the "Underclassed Clowns" in the world's craziest sport, donkey basketball.

In the first half the cold shooting of the "Sikeston All-Stars", featuring The Daily Standard's Ron Jaynes, Tony Pippen and C. L. Blanton III and also the lack of fancy ballhandling by such superstars as Lee Shell, Ron Carmody and Peter MacLaughlin fell victim to the superior shooting and outstanding riding ability of the "SHS Funky Faculty", starring Terry Coleman, Gary Williams, Asa Kinnamam, James Hewitt, Ron Peek, Mike Foster, Jim Graham and Dan Wood.

The "Faculty" played a stingy defense and held the "All- Stars" to a lone field goal by Lee Shell. Big Mike Foster did all the scoring for the "Faculty", netting four points. The score at halftime was 4-2, in favor of the home team.

The second half play was handled by the "young blood" of SHS as the "Super Seniors" did battle against the "Underclassed Clowns."

The "Seniors" blistering offense, led by David (Hotshot) Hahs, who had 14 points, burned the nets to lead them past such stars for the "Clowns" as Dennis White, Mike Hamra, Drew Matthews, Ricky Williams and Rodney Littleton. White was the leading scorer for the "Clowns" with six points.

SHS Math Club sponsors Gary Williams and Terry Coleman announced that the game was a huge success and that they would like to thank everyone for braving the weather to come out to see the game.

VALLEY LOSES

IRONTON — Bismarck wore down Arcadia Valley 82-73 Friday night in a Mineral Area Conference contest.

The visitors fell behind Arcadia Valley by three points in the first quarter when they socred 20 tallies against the Tigers' 23. Bismarck then jumped ahead in the second stanza, tallying 22 while Arcadia Valley came up with 15.

In the third quarter Bismarck added one point and padded its lead in the final frame to win going away.

Bismarck's Louie Lucas led all scorers with 32 tallies. Gary Scott led Arcadia Valley's efforts by bucketing 16 times.

Bismarch took the B-game 51-36 to make a sweep of the night. Stan Sikes was high man for Bismarck with 21.

Advance fights off Kelly

The AHS Hornets vaulted into first place in the latest Daily Standard poll and lived up to their billing with a fourth quarter blitz Friday night to hand the 10th- ranked Kelly Hawks their third defeat of the season, 75-66.

The Hawks battled the highly rated Hornets down to the end of the third period but, after that, the game was all Advance's Darrell Croy found his shooting eye and ripped the nets from the 20-foot range to ice the game and send the Hornets past the Hawks.

Both teams used tight defenses throughout the game until the Hornets opened up in the final eight minutes of play.

"We feel the zone defenses hurt," commented Coach Cookson after the game. Advance came out after the intermission and changed from a man- to man to a zone defense.

After the teams exchanged baskets at the outset, the Hornets forged ahead by six, 18-12, after the first period.

The Hawks kept pace with the favored Hornets for the first few minutes of the second period as Advance held a 28-21 point spread after five minutes of the second quarter.

The Hornets hit a cold spell from the field and Kelly crept closer in the next two minutes of the period and tied the game at 31-31 with 30 second left in the quarter.

The half came to a close with the score knotted at 33-all.

The third period was played evenly as Terry Wills hit a jump shot at the buzzer to give the Hornets a 52-50 lead going into the final quarter.

The Hawks would like to forget the first few minutes of the last period as Croy started to hit from the outside and the Hornets built an eight-point 58-50 advantage and Coach Nick Lampher's fighting five was out of the game.

The Hornets are now 16-0 for the season and won their 27th straight over the last two seasons.

Croy and Wills ended with 23 and 20 points respectively. Shelby and Jackson hit 16 and 15 for the Hawks.

Crutcher, Smitten lead Ducks unlimited

The nucleus of a Southeast Missouri chapter of Ducks Unlimited (DU) was formed early last fall by about 25 area waterfowl hunters in a dinner meeting at Ramada Inn.

Dub Crutchers, a well-known Essex sportsman and conservationist, was named the chairman of the group, which plans to meet again in early 1973 to plan public membership.

Crutcher and Kenneth H. Smitten, a Sikeston agri-businessman, planned the meeting and arranged to have Donald Thompson, DU South Mississippi Flyway regional director with offices in Memphis, one of the only seven DU staff members in the United States and Canda, as guest speaker.

Ducks Unlimited was founded by hunters for the purpose of bettering waterfowl breeding grounds primarily on the Canadian prairies. Through $10 individual annual membership fees, business contributions and annual fund - raising affairs in many areas. DU has spent more than $22 million in securing more than two million acres of prime waterfowl nesting habitat in Canada.

Thompson pointed out that DU currently has about 80,000 members, although about two million federal duck stamps are purchased each year by hunters. By 1980, DU hopes to acquire 4.5 million additional acres of duck habitat.

Indians clash with Lions

SENATH — Top- seeded Hayti and second- seeded Senath -Hornersville took expected wins in the Senath - Hornersville Invitational Tournament Friday night. Both games were close but Hayti pulled out a 59-50 win over Delta C-7 and Senath-Hornersville downed South Pemiscot 74-63.

In the first game Hayti found out the Chargers were not to be taken lightly. Scoring in the first quarter was tied up at 10-10. Play remained close but the Indians moved ahead at halftime 29-26.

Coming back from intermission, Delta C-7 stayed with the Indians and moved within one of a tie. Hayti broke out in the final frame and the Chargers could not continue the pace as Hayti earned a berth in tonight's championship game at 8 o'clock.

Oscar Cushinberry whipped in 32 markers to lead Hayti scoring, and Randy Gardner added 11. Joe Murrell led the Chargers with 11 points, and Dwight Blankenship followed with 10.

The second game was also a tight one before Senath-Hornersville pulled out the win. The Lions had four players in double figures. Herman Brown dumped in 24 markers to set the pace. Terry Kelley hit for 14 points, Dave Battles had 13 and Kent Wagoner added 12.

The Lions took an early edge over South Pemiscot and led first quarter scoring 21-12 and had the upper hand at halftime 34-28.

Scoring in the third quarter was even at 10 all, then both teams got hot in the fourth quarter but South Pemiscot could not dump in the needed baskets and had to take a backseat to the Lions.

Ken King was high scorer for the Bulldogs with 17 markers. Calvin Smith and Tony Becker each followed with 12. Jim Wallace backed them up with 10 points.

The tourney will close tonight with the South Pemiscot Bulldogs battling Delta C-7 for third place at 6:30 and Hayti and Senath-Hornersville fighting for the championship.

MULES TAKE DEER

CLARKTON — The Bernie Mules took a win from Clarkton Friday night 52-44.

Randy Jennings was high scorer for the Mules with 16 points with Larry White followed with 12.

Bernie had trouble getting started in the first quarter and came up with only a single basket. By the second quarter the Mules had picked up the pace and Clarkton fell behind at halftime 21-19.

The Reindeer ran into cold shooting in the third frame and let Bernie roar past. Clarkton hit for only six points compared to Bernie's 24. Clarkton tried for a rally in the final quarter but could head off the Mules.

WAVE TOP TIGERS

MALDEN — The Greenwave had to put out a fourth- quarter fire by the Neelyville Tigers to win their third game of the season against six losses 67-63. It was the third loss for the Tigers in 13 starts this season.

Neelyville played dead in the first quarter and Malden built up a 12-4 lead. Malden continued to dominate the action in the second period, holding the Tigers to nine points while they raced to 25 of their own and held a 37-13 halftime lead.

Neelyville regrouped after the intermission and managed 20 points but Malden added to the lead by pumping 22.

The Greenwave will probably never know what happened in the last period to change the game around, but Neelyville really got hot and burned the nets for 30 points while Malden could only hit eight.

James Trippiett and John Townes hit 14 points apiece for the Greenwave and Johnson had 19 for the Tigers in a losing effort.

Faculty, Seniors claim victories

The weather outside Friday night may have been poor, but the 900- plus crowd that braved the weather to see the "SHS Funky Faculty" narrowly defeat the "Sikeston All- Stars" and the powerful offense of the "SHS Super Seniors" crush the "Underclassed Clowns" in the world's craziest sport, donkey basketball.

In the first half the cold shooting of the "Sikeston All-Stars", featuring The Daily Standard's Ron Jaynes, Tony Pippen and C. L. Blanton III and also the lack of fancy ballhandling by such superstars as Lee Shell, Ron Carmody and Peter MacLaughlin fell victim to the superior shooting and outstanding riding ability of the "SHS Funky Faculty", starring Terry Coleman, Gary Williams, Asa Kinnamam, James Hewitt, Ron Peek, Mike Foster, Jim Graham and Dan Wood.

The "Faculty" played a stingy defense and held the "All- Stars" to a lone field goal by Lee Shell. Big Mike Foster did all the scoring for the "Faculty", netting four points. The score at halftime was 4-2, in favor of the home team.

The second half play was handled by the "young blood" of SHS as the "Super Seniors" did battle against the "Underclassed Clowns."

The "Seniors" blistering offense, led by David (Hotshot) Hahs, who had 14 points, burned the nets to lead them past such stars for the "Clowns" as Dennis White, Mike Hamra, Drew Matthews, Ricky Williams and Rodney Littleton. White was the leading scorer for the "Clowns" with six points.

SHS Math Club sponsors Gary Williams and Terry Coleman announced that the game was a huge success and that they would like to thank everyone for braving the weather to come out to see the game.

VALLEY LOSES

IRONTON — Bismarck wore down Arcadia Valley 82-73 Friday night in a Mineral Area Conference contest.

The visitors fell behind Arcadia Valley by three points in the first quarter when they socred 20 tallies against the Tigers' 23. Bismarck then jumped ahead in the second stanza, tallying 22 while Arcadia Valley came up with 15.

In the third quarter Bismarck added one point and padded its lead in the final frame to win going away.

Bismarck's Louie Lucas led all scorers with 32 tallies. Gary Scott led Arcadia Valley's efforts by bucketing 16 times.

Bismarch took the B-game 51-36 to make a sweep of the night. Stan Sikes was high man for Bismarck with 21.

Advance fights off Kelly

The AHS Hornets vaulted into first place in the latest Daily Standard poll and lived up to their billing with a fourth quarter blitz Friday night to hand the 10th- ranked Kelly Hawks their third defeat of the season, 75-66.

The Hawks battled the highly rated Hornets down to the end of the third period but, after that, the game was all Advance's Darrell Croy found his shooting eye and ripped the nets from the 20-foot range to ice the game and send the Hornets past the Hawks.

Both teams used tight defenses throughout the game until the Hornets opened up in the final eight minutes of play.

"We feel the zone defenses hurt," commented Coach Cookson after the game. Advance came out after the intermission and changed from a man- to man to a zone defense.

After the teams exchanged baskets at the outset, the Hornets forged ahead by six, 18-12, after the first period.

The Hawks kept pace with the favored Hornets for the first few minutes of the second period as Advance held a 28-21 point spread after five minutes of the second quarter.

The Hornets hit a cold spell from the field and Kelly crept closer in the next two minutes of the period and tied the game at 31-31 with 30 second left in the quarter.

The half came to a close with the score knotted at 33-all.

The third period was played evenly as Terry Wills hit a jump shot at the buzzer to give the Hornets a 52-50 lead going into the final quarter.

The Hawks would like to forget the first few minutes of the last period as Croy started to hit from the outside and the Hornets built an eight-point 58-50 advantage and Coach Nick Lampher's fighting five was out of the game.

The Hornets are now 16-0 for the season and won their 27th straight over the last two seasons.

Croy and Wills ended with 23 and 20 points respectively. Shelby and Jackson hit 16 and 15 for the Hawks.

Mules upset

POPLAR BLUFF — Coach Jim Hall's Dexter Bearcats upset the Poplar Bluff Mules Friday night 59-57. The Mules had upset the Caruthersville Tigers earlier in the week.

The Bearcats had to overcome a five- point deficit in the last period to take home the win.

Poplar Bluff had been rated number six in the latest Daily Standard poll.

Dexter took an 18-17 first period lead but Poplar Bluff battled back in the second quarter to erase the advantage and take a 33-30 halftime lead.

After the rest period the Mules continued to force the issue and used a fine defense to hold the Bearcats to eight points while scoring 10 of their own to increase their lead to five points going into the final period of play.

Dexter then caught fire and ran ahead of the Mules scoring 21 points to 14 for the host squad. Poplar Bluff won the field goal shooting edge 24-19 but lost the game at the free throw line, hitting nine while Dexter hit 21 charity tosses.

Lock hit 20 points for the Mules, while Lowes had 23 for Dexter.

Poplar Bluff won the B-game 42-40. John Casey hit 20 for the Mules and Mike Cooksey had 16 for Dexter.

Kennett loses

JACKSON — The Jackson Indians pulled an upset Friday night downing the Kennett Indians, 68-52. The Indians entered the contest ranked third in The Daily Standard poll.

The game was tied after the first period, 12-12, but after that the game belonged to the Jackson Tribe as the northern Indians dominated the game the rest of the way.

Jackson led 25-22 at the half. Kennett could not find the range in the last two periods and fell back further.

Jackson's defense was more than the Kennett team could handle, and Coach Terry Turlington's five fell for the second straight time, including the finals of the Christmas tournament at Bloomfield. Kennett holds a 9-4 record for the season while Jackson is 2-5. Jackson is 1-0 in SeMo Conference play and Kennett is 0-1.

Roosevelt Williams was the big gun for Kennett with 22 points. Kent Nelson also had 22 for Jackson.

CHS winless

CARUTHERSVILLE — The new year has been a stumbling block for coach Hugh James' Caruthersville Tigers, who are winless on the year after going undefeated through the 1972 portion of the season.

Friday night Osceola, Ark., made rather easy work of the Tigers, racing to a 65-54 win that dropped the CHS Cagers to 12-2 on the season. The first loss came earlier this week when Poplar Bluff turned back the Tigers.

Through the 1972 schedule, the Tigers were 12-0, including North Pemiscot and South Pemiscot tournament championships.

Osceola took a 13-10 first period lead and stayed ahead the rest of the way, rackiup its 15th victory in 16 games and outbattling the CHS cagers on the boards.

Mike Thomas and David Pugh teamed for 34 points in leading the win, scoring 18 and 16 points respectively.

Joe Cagle scored 14, Greg Cunningham 12 and Dennis Yarbrough 11 to lead the Caruthersville offense.

BOXING

MEXICO CITY—The World Boxing Council stripped Panama's Enrique Pinder of his world bantamweight title for his failure to defend his title against the WBC's top challenger within six months of his winning the championship, and announced Agustin Senin of Spain and No. 1 contender Rodolfo Martinez of Spain will fight for the vacated crown within three months.

AUBURN, Maine (AP) — A Massachusetts promoter plans to seek an Eastern Hockey League franchise for Auburn in the 1973-74 season.

Thomas O'Connell of Hingham, who recently announced plans to build a $1 million arena here, said the team to be known as the Maine Yankees would be made up of players recruited from U.S. colleges. The team will play in the 5,000-seat arena scheduled for completion in September.

grid quiz

by Dave Nelson, executive secretary, NCAA Football Rules Committee

On fourth down the Colorado quarterback attempts a forward pass against Oklahoma and it is batted in the air by a defensive lineman. The quarterback catches the batted ball and throws to a halfback who is behind the line of scrimmage. The halfback runs for a touchdown.

The official should:

1. Permit the touchdown.

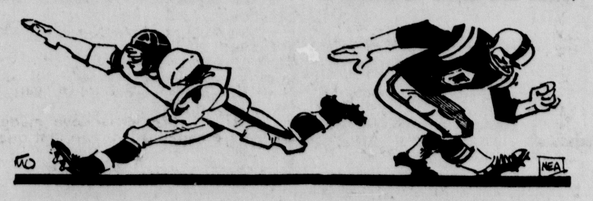

2. Penalize Colorado 5 yards for an illegal forward pass and replay the down.

3. Penalize Colorado 5 yards for an illegal forward pass from the spot of the foul and declare 1st down and 10 for Oklahoma.

Answer: Number 3. Penalize Colorado 5 yards for an illegal forward pass from the spot of the foul and declare 1st down and 10 for Oklahoma.

Rule: (7-3-2-c) A forward pass is illegal if it is the second forward pass by Team A during the same down.

New Madrid romps

NEW MADRID — Coach Carroll Compton's New Madrid Indians upped their season record to 4-7 Friday night with a 61-45 New Madrid County Conference victory over the Portageville Bulldogs.

The Indians jumped to a quick 13-10 first period advantage but couldn't hold it as the Bulldogs outscored their hosts 16-9 in the second quarter to take a 26-22 halftime lead.

The second half was all New Madrid's as the hosts outscored the Bulldogs 17-11 in the third quarter and then pumped in 22 points in the final period while holding Portageville to eight.

Sophomore Steve Glenn led the Indians with 26 points and cleared the boards on both ends of the floor against the taller Portageville quintet. Phil Ransburgh and Vernon Collins added 10 points apiece for the winners.

James Holt continued to lead Bulldogs scoring as he paced the visitors with 15 points.

New Madrid also took the junior varsity contest, 42-30, behind the 16-point production of Ralph Tucker. Larry Davis led the junior Bulldogs in scoring with 10 points.

MHS downs Eagles

MATTHEWS — Coach Carl Ritter and his Matthews Pirates led a balanced attack on the Oran Eagles to capture a win in Friday night's basketball action, 88-84.

Terry Spraggs paced the victory with 29 points, while Jimmy Hardin dumped in 21 and Ricky Parker and Armand Porter followed with 18 and 14.

The Pirates stepped out to a four- point lead in the first quarter. Action remained close during second quarter action but Matthews opened the edge to seven at halftime 43-36.

Both teams continued to hit after the intermission, but Oran could close the gap by only three points. The Eagles had a good defensive effort against the Pirates but not enough to take the win.

Matthews now holds a 12-5 record.

Otis Burley ripped the cords for 28 points to lead scoring for the Eagles, while Paul Taylor hit 18 and Randy Hanley added 14.

Matthews had a sweep of the night's action with a win over Oran in overtime 64-61. Dave Kennedy scored 24 points and Ken Lape 20 to lead the Pirates to the win. Ken Hurst pumped in 26 markers for the losers.

Rebs hit 100

ESSEX — The Richland Rebels unloaded their guns against the Bell City Cubs Friday night and came away with a 100-46 victory.

Richland raced to a 23-10 first period lead as the Cubs were unable to match the offensive display by the Rebels, who had five men score in double figures.

Richland never cooled and held a 48-25 halftime lead.

The Rebels took up where they left off in the third quarter and burned the nets for 25 more points, then scored 27 more in the final period for their total of 100.

Kenny Cain and Smoot hit 18 points apiece to lead the Rebels. Bill Brown had 17 for the Cubs.

The Rebels are 6-4 for the season and 2-0 in Stoddard County conference play.

Richland had an easy time winning the B-game 70-30 as Jim Clay hit 17 points. Rivers had nine for the Cubs.

Mules upset

POPLAR BLUFF — Coach Jim Hall's Dexter Bearcats upset the Poplar Bluff Mules Friday night 59-57. The Mules had upset the Caruthersville Tigers earlier in the week.

The Bearcats had to overcome a five- point deficit in the last period to take home the win.

Poplar Bluff had been rated number six in the latest Daily Standard poll.

Dexter took an 18-17 first period lead but Poplar Bluff battled back in the second quarter to erase the advantage and take a 33-30 halftime lead.

After the rest period the Mules continued to force the issue and used a fine defense to hold the Bearcats to eight points while scoring 10 of their own to increase their lead to five points going into the final period of play.

Dexter then caught fire and ran ahead of the Mules scoring 21 points to 14 for the host squad. Poplar Bluff won the field goal shooting edge 24-19 but lost the game at the free throw line, hitting nine while Dexter hit 21 charity tosses.

Lock hit 20 points for the Mules, while Lowes had 23 for Dexter.

Poplar Bluff won the B-game 42-40. John Casey hit 20 for the Mules and Mike Cooksey had 16 for Dexter.

Kennett loses

JACKSON — The Jackson Indians pulled an upset Friday night downing the Kennett Indians, 68-52. The Indians entered the contest ranked third in The Daily Standard poll.

The game was tied after the first period, 12-12, but after that the game belonged to the Jackson Tribe as the northern Indians dominated the game the rest of the way.

Jackson led 25-22 at the half. Kennett could not find the range in the last two periods and fell back further.

Jackson's defense was more than the Kennett team could handle, and Coach Terry Turlington's five fell for the second straight time, including the finals of the Christmas tournament at Bloomfield. Kennett holds a 9-4 record for the season while Jackson is 2-5. Jackson is 1-0 in SeMo Conference play and Kennett is 0-1.

CHS winless

CARUTHERSVILLE — The new year has been a stumbling block for coach Hugh James' Caruthersville Tigers, who are winless on the year after going undefeated through the 1972 portion of the season.

Friday night Osceola, Ark., made rather easy work of the Tigers, racing to a 65-54 win that dropped the CHS Cagers to 12-2 on the season. The first loss came earlier this week when Poplar Bluff turned back the Tigers.

Through the 1972 schedule, the Tigers were 12-0, including North Pemiscot and South Pemiscot tournament championships.

Osceola took a 13-10 first period lead and stayed ahead the rest of the way, rackiup its 15th victory in 16 games and outbattling the CHS cagers on the boards.

Mike Thomas and David Pugh teamed for 34 points in leading the win, scoring 18 and 16 points respectively.

Joe Cagle scored 14, Greg Cunningham 12 and Dennis Yarbrough 11 to lead the Caruthersville offense.

BOXING

MEXICO CITY—The World Boxing Council stripped Panama's Enrique Pinder of his world bantamweight title for his failure to defend his title against the WBC's top challenger within six months of his winning the championship, and announced Agustin Senin of Spain and No. 1 contender Rodolfo Martinez of Spain will fight for the vacated crown within three months.

AUBURN, Maine (AP) — A Massachusetts promoter plans to seek an Eastern Hockey League franchise for Auburn in the 1973-74 season.

Thomas O'Connell of Hingham, who recently announced plans to build a $1 million arena here, said the team to be known as the Maine Yankees would be made up of players recruited from U.S. colleges. The team will play in the 5,000-seat arena scheduled for completion in September.

grid quiz

by Dave Nelson, executive secretary, NCAA Football Rules Committee

On fourth down the Colorado quarterback attempts a forward pass against Oklahoma and it is batted in the air by a defensive lineman. The quarterback catches the batted ball and throws to a halfback who is behind the line of scrimmage. The halfback runs for a touchdown.

The official should:

1. Permit the touchdown.

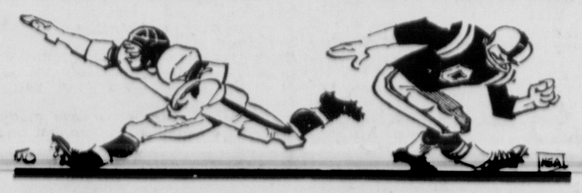

2. Penalize Colorado 5 yards for an illegal forward pass and replay the down.

3. Penalize Colorado 5 yards for an illegal forward pass from the spot of the foul and declare 1st down and 10 for Oklahoma.

Answer: Number 3. Penalize Colorado 5 yards for an illegal forward pass from the spot of the foul and declare 1st down and 10 for Oklahoma.

Rule: (7-3-2-c) A forward pass is illegal if it is the second forward pass by Team A during the same down.

New Madrid romps

NEW MADRID — Coach Carroll Compton's New Madrid Indians upped their season record to 4-7 Friday night with a 61-45 New Madrid County Conference victory over the Portageville Bulldogs.

The Indians jumped to a quick 13-10 first period advantage but couldn't hold it as the Bulldogs outscored their hosts 16-9 in the second quarter to take a 26-22 halftime lead.

The second half was all New Madrid's as the hosts outscored the Bulldogs 17-11 in the third quarter and then pumped in 22 points in the final period while holding Portageville to eight.

Sophomore Steve Glenn led the Indians with 26 points and cleared the boards on both ends of the floor against the taller Portageville quintet. Phil Ransburgh and Vernon Collins added 10 points apiece for the winners.

James Holt continued to lead Bulldogs scoring as he paced the visitors with 15 points.

New Madrid also took the junior varsity contest, 42-30, behind the 16-point production of Ralph Tucker. Larry Davis led the junior Bulldogs in scoring with 10 points.

MHS downs Eagles

MATTHEWS — Coach Carl Ritter and his Matthews Pirates led a balanced attack on the Oran Eagles to capture a win in Friday night's basketball action, 88-84.

Terry Spraggs paced the victory with 29 points, while Jimmy Hardin dumped in 21 and Ricky Parker and Armand Porter followed with 18 and 14.

The Pirates stepped out to a four- point lead in the first quarter. Action remained close during second quarter action but Matthews opened the edge to seven at halftime 43-36.

Both teams continued to hit after the intermission, but Oran could close the gap by only three points. The Eagles had a good defensive effort against the Pirates but not enough to take the win.

Matthews now holds a 12-5 record.

Otis Burley ripped the cords for 28 points to lead scoring for the Eagles, while Paul Taylor hit 18 and Randy Hanley added 14.

Matthews had a sweep of the night's action with a win over Oran in overtime 64-61. Dave Kennedy scored 24 points and Ken Lape 20 to lead the Pirates to the win. Ken Hurst pumped in 26 markers for the losers.

Scoring:
ORAN (84)

Rebs hit 100

ESSEX — The Richland Rebels unloaded their guns against the Bell City Cubs Friday night and came away with a 100-46 victory.

Richland raced to a 23-10 first period lead as the Cubs were unable to match the offensive display by the Rebels, who had five men score in double figures.

Richland never cooled and held a 48-25 halftime lead.

The Rebels took up where they left off in the third quarter and burned the nets for 25 more points, then scored 27 more in the final period for their total of 100.

Kenny Cain and Smoot hit 18 points apiece to lead the Rebels. Bill Brown had 17 for the Cubs.

The Rebels are 6-4 for the season and 2-0 in Stoddard County conference play.

Richland had an easy time winning the B-game 70-30 as Jim Clay hit 17 points. Rivers had nine for the Cubs.

Stoddard audit shows deficiences in Castor records

BLOOMFIELD — A series of nine recommendations for changes in the handling of tax monies was made in the official state audit of county records which was received last week by County Clerk John Marvin Capps.

The audit showed no serious deficiencies in any of the county financial records with the exception of Castor township collector Griff Koechig who is presently awaiting trial on charges of embezzlement. Koechig has resigned from the office.

The nine points listed are as follows:

(1) At Dec. 31, 1971, the collateral, pledged to secure the treasurer's and ex- officio collector's deposits at Citizens Bank of Dexter, Bank of Bloomfield and Bank of Advance was deficient by $236,608, $681,446 and $16,468, respectively. The court should establish procedures to assure that collateral pledged is not less than deposits at any time.

(2) For the reasons mentioned in our letter to you of Oct. 4, 1972, Castor Township Collector Griff Koechig owes the various political subdivisions $12,626.

(3) Due to errors in making payments to the various treasurers and in computing commissions, the net amount of $221 is due to the various collectors and former collectors by the various political subdivisions as follows.

Due to: Former Pike Township Collector August Sherer $165; Pike Township Collector Kathy Strobel $45; Elk Township Collector George Watson $100 for a total of $310.

Less due from: Former Pike Township Collector Ardis Eakin $89.

Net Amount due to collectors and former collectors as detailed $221.

(4) Ex- Officio Collector Dean Cooper owed $135 to the drainage district for taxes collected but not turned over. In June 1972 this was paid to the drainage district.

(5) Former Sheriff Ralph Temples owed $1,184 to the county treasury. This was due primarily to his retaining state payments for transporting prisoners to Jefferson City in addition to his receiving mileage and per diem for the same prisoners. The state payment should have been turned over to the treasurer. In the prior audit former Sheriff Temples owed $2,846 mainly for the same reason; he has not made any payments for this to the county.

(6) Sheriff Edsel Edwards owed the county $2,385 because he retained court attendance fees after Oct. 13, 1969, when such fees became [illegible]table. When informed of this debt, Sheriff Ed Edwards paid $2,385 to the county treasurer.

(7) Circuit Clerk Charles Corbin owes $322 to the county because he retained accountable fees in 1971.

(8) Former Circuit Clerk William Blue owes the circuit clerk's office $171 because of cases he overpaid.

(9) The Law Library fund owes $368 to the State of Missouri and $250 to the Mo-Arc Electric Coop. These amounts were the interes earned on certificates o deposit purchased with deposits made by the state and Mo-Arc with the circuit clerk. The interest should have been credited to the state and Mo-Arc and not to the Law Library fund.

In addition, other recommendations made to the various agencies included:

TREASURER -- In December 1968 Treasurer deposited $37,468 from the general fund in Bank of Bloomfield. Through the completion of our audit field work this account has remained dormant. We recommend that this amount be invested until it is required for county operations.

EX- OFFICIO COLLECTOR -- The ex- officio collector has balance of $339 from surplus tax sales; we recommend this amount be turned over to the treasurer and placed in the over- plus tax surplus account as required by statute.

RECORDER -- The recorder maintains six separate bank accounts and the monthly turnover to the county treasurer normally includes checks in varying amounts from the recorder drawn on each of these six banks; plus money orders, plus small checks make payable to the recorder and endorsed to the county treasurer and cash. Recommended that one bank account be maintained, that all receipts be identified on the bank deposit slips and that one check be issued monthly to the county treasurer. This should simplify and improve the accountability for funds.

TOWNSHIP COLLECTOR - Court orders for additions and abatements were not recorded by several of the township collectors during the proper tax years. Recommend that all township collectors enter court orders, both additions and abatements on their tax books promptly at the time orders are issued.

CIRCUIT CLERK -- The circuit clerk does not maintain a listing of open items and therefore is unable to reconcile open items with the bank balance. Recommend that the circuit clerk prepare a listing of open items at end of each month from the fee sheets in the file which contains all open cases and reconcile the total with the month ending bank balances.

Wonder how they can sell those superpriced dingbats of last December for 50 per cent off right now.

One nice thing about January: They can't run the show more than 31 days.

Intangible tax pays $72,000 to MissCo

CHARLESTON — Mississippi County has received a payment of $72,037.60 as its share of the Missouri intangible tax for 1972, according to County Treasurer Demma Atteberry.

The money has been disbursed to the designated agencies, Mrs. Atteberry said.

The breakdown by agencies:

County revenue fund, $5,953.38; Anniston, $38.23; Charleston, $13,330.02; East Prairie, $4,108.37; Wyatt, $182.68; Charleston R-1 District, $32,115.84; East Prairie R-2 District, $8,807.82; road and bridge fund, $4,167.36; airport fund, $238.15; health department $714.41; Johnson grass fund, $595.32; library fund, $1,786.02.

The intangible tax is obtained by a tax on the interest paid on funds in savings accounts.

Hogs taken

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Livestock Co. Inc. on Highway 25 reported this morning that three graded hogs were missing this morning. Barn manager Robert Hanner and Manager C. E. Cantrell made the discovery. They also found tire tracks near the barn.

The theft is being investigated by the Stoddard County sheriff's department.

Spradling chairs panel to hold revamp hearings

JEFFERSON CITY — Sen Albert M. Spradling Jr. has been named chairman of a committee yet to be appointed to hold hearings on the 542-page bill which would reorganize departments of Missouri government.

Sen. Wm. J. Cason, Clinton Democrat, president pro tem of the Senate, named the Cape Girardeau Democrat shortly after the Senate convened Wednesday afternoon.

He urged that the committee spend its entire time on the bill, meeting five days a week, so it can be placed on the Senate floor for early debate.

"It is very important that we move it and not bog down," Cason said.

Spradling estimated it would take up to two weeks to hold the hearings. He said both proponents and opponents would be heard, but few of the former are expected since they appeared before an interim committee last summer and fall.

Each department proposed in the reorganization bill will be taken up separately, the senator said.

Printing of the bill should be completed next week and hearings should begin the following week, Spradling said.

"The idea is to push the bill as rapidly as possible. We will try to achieve reorganization this year."

When the bill is brought before the Senate, he said, all other business will be dropped and it will occupy the Senate's time until it is either passed or defeated. It is expected the bill will reach the Senate floor about Feb. 1.

Government, foreign leaders gather for short HST Memorial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "fearless son of simple] soil'' from Missouri—President Harry S. Truman—has been eulogized as the man who wore the mantle of America's trust "with truth and bore his solitary power with humility."

Government and foreign dignitaries gathered at the Washington Cathedral Friday for the short memorial service for the 33rd president of the United States.

The 88-year-old Truman died Dec. 26 and was buried Dec. 28 in the courtyard of the Truman library in Independence, Mo.

President Nixon, who flew to Independence to pay his respects before the funeral, did not attend Friday's memorial service.

Those attending included Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew, Mamie Eisenhower and numerous members of the House and Senate and Supreme Court.

The Agnews and Mrs. Eisenhower sat with Truman's only child, Margaret Truman Daniels, and her husband in the front row of the massive limestone cathedral.

Mrs. Truman did not attend. She is 87 and in frail health.

Among foreign dignitaries were Ireland's Prime Minister Jack Lynch, President Zalman Shazar of Israel, and Premier Kim Chung Pil of South Korea.

Rev. John E. Howell, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Washington, which Truman attended when he was president, opened the service and the Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., dean of the cathedral, delivered the eulogy.

The Rev. Mr. Sayre called Truman "earthy plain, there were no wrinkles in his honesty.

"When the time came, he stepped to the anvil humble but not afraid, relying always in his independent way upon the goodness of the Lord, in whose hand is the hammer of our fate," The Rev. Mr. Sayre said.

Stoddard audit shows deficiences in Castor records

BLOOMFIELD — A series of nine recommendations for changes in the handling of tax monies was made in the official state audit of county records which was received last week by County Clerk John Marvin Capps.

The audit showed no serious deficiencies in any of the county financial records with the exception of Castor township collector Griff Koechig who is presently awaiting trial on charges of embezzlement. Koechig has resigned from the office.

The nine points listed are as follows:

(1) At Dec. 31, 1971, the collateral, pledged to secure the treasurer's and ex- officio collector's deposits at Citizens Bank of Dexter, Bank of Bloomfield and Bank of Advance was deficient by $236,608, $681,446 and $16,468, respectively. The court should establish procedures to assure that collateral pledged is not less than deposits at any time.

(2) For the reasons mentioned in our letter to you of Oct. 4, 1972, Castor Township Collector Griff Koechig owes the various political subdivisions $12,626.

(3) Due to errors in making payments to the various treasurers and in computing commissions, the net amount of $221 is due to the various collectors and former collectors by the various political subdivisions as follows.

Due to: Former Pike Township Collector August Sherer $165; Pike Township Collector Kathy Strobel $45; Elk Township Collector George Watson $100 for a total of $310.

Less due from: Former Pike Township Collector Ardis Eakin $89.

Net Amount due to collectors and former collectors as detailed $221.

(4) Ex- Officio Collector Dean Cooper owed $135 to the drainage district for taxes collected but not turned over. In June 1972 this was paid to the drainage district.

(5) Former Sheriff Ralph Temples owed $1,184 to the county treasury. This was due primarily to his retaining state payments for transporting prisoners to Jefferson City in addition to his receiving mileage and per diem for the same prisoners. The state payment should have been turned over to the treasurer. In the prior audit former Sheriff Temples owed $2,846 mainly for the same reason; he has not made any payments for this to the county.

(6) Sheriff Edsel Edwards owed the county $2,385 because he retained court attendance fees after Oct. 13, 1969, when such fees became [illegible]table. When informed of this debt, Sheriff Ed Edwards paid $2,385 to the county treasurer.

(7) Circuit Clerk Charles Corbin owes $322 to the county because he retained accountable fees in 1971.

(8) Former Circuit Clerk William Blue owes the circuit clerk's office $171 because of cases he overpaid.

(9) The Law Library fund owes $368 to the State of Missouri and $250 to the Mo-Arc Electric Coop. These amounts were the interes earned on certificates o deposit purchased with deposits made by the state and Mo-Arc with the circuit clerk. The interest should have been credited to the state and Mo-Arc and not to the Law Library fund.

In addition, other recommendations made to the various agencies included:

TREASURER -- In December 1968 Treasurer deposited $37,468 from the general fund in Bank of Bloomfield. Through the completion of our audit field work this account has remained dormant. We recommend that this amount be invested until it is required for county operations.

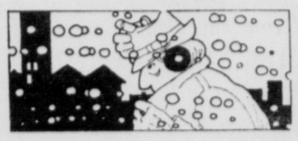

EX- OFFICIO COLLECTOR -- The ex- officio collector has balance of $339 from surplus tax sales; we recommend this amount be turned over to the treasurer and placed in the over- plus tax surplus account as required by statute.

RECORDER -- The recorder maintains six separate bank accounts and the monthly turnover to the county treasurer normally includes checks in varying amounts from the recorder drawn on each of these six banks; plus money orders, plus small checks make payable to the recorder and endorsed to the county treasurer and cash. Recommended that one bank account be maintained, that all receipts be identified on the bank deposit slips and that one check be issued monthly to the county treasurer. This should simplify and improve the accountability for funds.

TOWNSHIP COLLECTOR -- Court orders for additions and abatements were not recorded by several of the township collectors during the proper tax years. Recommend that all township collectors enter court orders, both additions and abatements on their tax books promptly at the time orders are issued.

CIRCUIT CLERK -- The circuit clerk does not maintain a listing of open items and therefore is unable to reconcile open items with the bank balance. Recommend that the circuit clerk prepare a listing of open items at end of each month from the fee sheets in the file which contains all open cases and reconcile the total with the month ending bank balances.

With this remarkable statement, the 1971 George Foster Peabody Award characterized 60 MINUTES, now in its 5th season on the CBS Television Network.

Whether it offers an exclusive interview with Dita Beard or an essay on credit card thievery; whether it's a talk with Clifford Irving (who subsequently got the series' nomination as 'actor of the year') or a study of the perils of buying a mobile home, 60 MINUTES, as described by Life magazine, "entertains, instructs, often illuminates and sometimes even makes the news."

The basic idea behind 60 MINUTES is that there is a wide and compelling world around us of people and actions and ideas that are not adequately served by the hard news of headlines or the more leisurely documentary. So, combining both, 60 MINUTES has long since proven that its original premise is not only sound but makes for some of the most informative and entertaining television in the medium. 60 MINUTES has also developed some permanent features (all of which do not necessarily appear in every broadcast) that have shown themselves to be as popular as the "lead" stories.

The opening feature, Headlines, was newly instituted when the program became a Sunday series, making 60 MINUTES the network's first news broadcast on Sunday. T.V's audiences have responded to "letters from listeners" making this a refreshing two- way segment. Finally, Point /Counterpoint presents the conservative columnist of the Washington Evening Star James J. Kilpatrick and the Washington Post's liberal columnist Nicholas Von Hoffman. One week, one will make approximately a 90- second comment on some major issue and is answered in equal time by the other; the next week the order is reversed. Both men are personable, articulate, informed and biased beyond hope-- which is what makes Point/ Counterpoint so much fun.

As for Mike Wallace and Morley Safer, Life magazine said it again when it noted, "These men add up to the most intelligent news on television." John J. O'Connor of the New York Times added, "Mr. Wallace's persistent jabbing and Mr. Safer's elegantly devastating roundhouses (have) taken on a slew of formidable subjects and scored impressive victories." Wallace and Safer complement each other, balance each other and give each broadcast variety and a welcome change of pace.

In his more than 20 years with CBS News, Don Hewitt, Executive Producer, has been associated with such noted broadcasts as the CBS Evening News, the Kennedy— Nixon debates, "Town Meetings of the World," and "Vietnam Perspectives." Senior Producer Palmer Williams joined CBS News in 1951 to become Executive Producer of the "See It Now" series. 60 MINUTES will begin its weekly schedule starting Sunday, December 24, 1972, at 6:00- 7:00 PM, CNYT, and the season ahead promises to be an exciting one.

With this remarkable statement, the 1971 George Foster Peabody Award characterized 60 MINUTES, now in its 5th season on the CBS Television Network.

Whether it offers an exclusive interview with Dita Beard or an essay on credit card thievery; whether it's a talk with Clifford Irving (who subsequently got the series' nomination as 'actor of the year') or a study of the perils of buying a mobile home, 60 MINUTES, as described by Life magazine, "entertains, instructs, often illuminates and sometimes even makes the news."

Cookie Recipe Comes from Greece

Immigrants from many different lands have contributed the best of their native cookery to our varied American dessert cuisine.

One of the many national groups to add to our culinary wealth are the Greeks. "Kourambiathes" is the Greek name for a delicate confection — an almond flavored cookie rolled in confectioners sugar just before serving.

Greek Cookies

2½ cups sifted flour
¼ cup corn starch
1 cup margarine
¼ cup confectioners sugar
1 egg yolk
¾ teaspoon almond extract
¼ cup chopped nuts, optional

Sift together flour and corn starch. With a spoon, blend margarine and confectioners sugar in mixing bowl. Blend in egg yolk and almond extract. Cut in flour mixture with pastry blender or two knives until coarse crumbs form. Add nuts. Knead dough a few times, until it holds together easily.

Pinch off balls of dough (about 1 inch) and shape cookies as desired. (Dough may be flattened and cut with cookie cutters.) Place on ungreased cookie sheet.

Bake in 350° F. (moderate) oven until golden brown, about 15 minutes. Roll in confectioners sugar before serving. Makes about 2 dozen.

Perform Musical Response To Nativity Story On

"Lamp Unto My Feet"

Jan. 7

"Time's Running Out: An Afterthought to Christmas," a response to the story of the Nativity with original soul music and commentary, will be rebroadcast on "Lamp Unto My Feet" on Sunday, Jan. 7 (9— 9:30 AM,) on the CBS Television Network. The broadcast was originally presented January 12, 1969.

Members of Act IV Productions, a black group headquartered in the southwest area of Chicago in a building operated by Chicago Youth Centers, perform to music and lyrics by Jimmy Hudson, one of their members. Al Johnson is the narrator.

The broadcast was taped in the headquarters of the group and in the surrounding streets before an audience of children from Chicago's poorer neighborhoods.

Participants in the broadcast are Ernie Jenkins, head of the Chicago Youth Centers, Jesse Hudson, Carl Lewis, Helen Ford, and Lucille and Rev. Carter.

"Lamp Unto My Feet" is a presentation of CBS News with Pamela Ilott executive poducer. Chalmers Dale produced "Time's Running Out: An Afterthought to Christmas."

Set This Town On Fire

Monday, Jan. 8

Chuck Connors, Carl Betz, Lynda Day and Charles Robinson star in a drama about a newspaper publisher who must decide what to do when he develops doubts over his own testimony, which sent a politician to jail for manslaughter. (Color)

A newspaper publisher must decide what to do when he develops doubts about his part in having sent a politician to jail for manslaughter, in "World Premiere: Set This Town on Fire," starring Chuck Connors, Carl Betz, Lynda Day and Charles Robinson, to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Monday, Jan. 8 (8—10 p.m.)

John Anderson, Jeff Corey, James Westerfield, Paul Fix and Nancy Malone co- star.

When Clarence "Buddy" Bates (Connors) returns from prison, Henry Kealey (Anderson), the town derelict, meets with the three men whose testimony convicted Bates-- publisher Andy Wells (Betz), businessman Walter Stafford (Corey), and attorney- land developer Cark Rickter (Westerfield). Kealey now admits to the crime but says he would deny it under oath. The three must decide if he's telling the truth and what to do about it. Wells's decision involves the respect of his son, Brad (Robinson).

The cast includes Miss Day as photographer Molly Thornburgh, who is in romantic conflict between father and son; Fix as Sen. Porter, a candidate for governor who wants Bates to run for lieutenant governor; and Miss Malone as Bates's ex- wife, Shirley Hammond.

Roy Huggins served as executive producer of this Universal- Public Arts production, written by John Thomas James and produced and directed by David Lowell Rich.
